

Ship rescue warning to N. Korea

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Leading administration officials say that the Gulf of Siam military operation to recover the container ship Mayaguez and her crew had been undertaken in part to alert North Korea and other Communist countries that the United States was ready to meet force with force to protect its interests.

Conversations with top officials involved in the diplomatic aspects of the operation showed that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in particular, argued within the National Security Council that the United States might face worse crises if the Cambodian Communists were permitted to keep the crew members of the Mayaguez and to try to strike a deal for their release.

But there were officials who challenged the view of Kissinger and others that the outcome of the Mayaguez incident would have a long-range positive effect for the United States.

One of Kissinger's close aides said he thought that not much had really changed — that the United States was still in a weakened position in Asia and that the support of Congress in the incident was probably temporary and would not necessarily extend to other areas of difference.

Although there have been no overt signs that North Korea is preparing to attack South Korea, administration officials have said for some time that the next major trouble spot in Asia would probably be the Korean Peninsula.

About 38,000 American soldiers are deployed in South Korea.

Speaking of the recovery of the Mayaguez and the ship's crew, one top official said, "This whole operation will have a salutary effect on our position in Asia."

He said he believed the North Koreans, at the least, would have to consider more seriously the American commitment to South Korea than they might have immediately after the fall of South Vietnam to the Communists in April.

Kim Il Sung, the North Korean leader, went to China to seek support for an invasion of South Korea but apparently did not receive it.

In terms of the immediate future Kissinger will

$5.3 billion to fight recession

Congress votes jobs bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate sent to President Ford a $5.3 billion emergency appropriations bill Friday designed to produce 900,000 jobs to help fight the recession.

The measure is $2.7 billion more than administration budget estimates, however, and Republicans predicted Ford would veto it.

The measure seeks to provide the jobs through direct public service employment programs and indirectly through acceleration of public works projects.

Democratic managers of the legislation sought to make it more acceptable to Ford by cutting the total $635 million below the amount originally passed by the House and $776 million under the Senate figure.

The Senate went along with this strategy Friday by agreeing to delete from the measure $700 million for rehabilitation and improvement of railroad roadbeds and facilities.

However, another try to get this money for the ailing rail lines will be made next week when the Senate takes up a $15.9 billion supplemental appropriations bill.

Just before approving the emergency money bill, the Senate passed another measure authorizing the $700 million in rail funds to help provide 40,000 jobs, but the House has not yet acted on this.

The major allotments in the emergency bill are:

—$1.6 billion for public service jobs.

—$485 million for summer youth jobs.

—$440 million for construction and repair of federal buildings around the country.

—$375 million for job opportunities under Economic Development Administration projects.

—$385 million for small business loans.

—$325 million for speed-up of flood control, reclamation, and rivers and harbors projects.

—$243 million for national forest, recreation and wildlife projects.

—$150 million for rural water and sewer grants.

—$100 million for construction and improvement of small post offices.

—$120 million for college student work-study grants.

—$73 million for purchase of autos for federal agencies.

—$70 million for improvement of Veterans Administration facilities, including hospitals.

The administration supported only the funds in the bill for public service and summer youth jobs.

The bill as it originally passed the House contained funds to buy 121,000 autos to help that industry. But this was cut back to 21,000 in the compromise version

Permanent job loss for some

Douglas furloughs 400 more

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

Douglas Aircraft Co., having already dropped 5,325 workers in the past year as a result of declining plane orders, continued to chip away at its Long Beach work force by temporarily laying off an additional 400 workers Friday.

The layoff, which will be for two weeks, reduces the plant population in Long Beach to 14,275.

A year ago, Douglas employed 20,000 workers at the plant, including about 11,000 hourly paid employees—most of them members of the United Auto and Aerospace Workers Union.

With the latest cutback, the hourly rated work force now numbers about 8,600, according to a company estimate.

Precisely how many of the 400 workers will be permanently laid off isn't certain at this point. But a company spokesman said some of the workers will definitely be out of work when their furloughs are up.

The layoff is the latest in a succession of plant reductions that have taken place over the past 12 months or so—although it's among the larger ones.

It stems primarily from a lag in DC10 sales.

Generally, according to the company, the introduction of a new commercial plane is accompanied by a surge of new orders that normally runs its course in three years. Thereafter, demand slackens off, and the first wave of orders settles into a trough. It's that trough in which the company now finds itself.

Beyond that, though, Douglas' DC10 sales have been adversely affected by the current economic recession and the worldwide slump in airline passenger business.

"You get an economic cold wind blowing, and when the airlines sneeze, the manufacturers get a severe cold," was the way one company official put it.

Although DC10 sales are off, the company's twin-jet airliner, the DC9, is still enjoying good business, indicating that the smaller, short-haul planes have weathered the airline slump much better than the wide-bodied jobs—which include, in addition to the DC10, Boeing's 747 and Lockheed's L1011.

A Douglas spokesman indicated that the aircraft company—a division of McDonnell Douglas Corp.—probably would have ordered the latest layoff earlier this year if it hadn't been for the recent strike of the International Association of Machinists.

The machinists' walkout seriously impaired the production of plane parts at the company's Torrance plant, and the subsequent parts shortage put a serious crimp in Douglas' production of DC9s and DC10s.

(Because the United Auto and Aerospace Workers Union refused to join the strike, however, the machinists' work stoppage did not prevent the company from completing a sizable number of plane

Southland doctors press strike plans

By AL MURRELL
Staff Writer

Anesthesiologists vowed to press on with plans to strike 13 hospitals in Long Beach and the South Bay area Monday morning despite a special session of the Legislature ordered Friday by Gov. Brown to attack the problem of soaring malpractice insurance rates.

Dr. Sol Statman, district director of the California Society of Anesthesiologists, said the doctors "reaffirmed their commitment to withhold nonemergency services starting Monday."

Statman said, "We are aware of the special legislative session called by Gov. Brown and are hopeful that it will result in the speedy passage of meaningful legislation, which will correct the malpractice crisis."

"Our position will be maintained as long as necessary to achieve this goal."

The Long Beach doctor also urged "everyone in the community" to support the work slowdown by writing to his legislative representatives.

Meanwhile, anesthesiologists at 16 hospitals in northern Orange County and the San Gabriel Valley announced they will join in Monday's Southern California work slowdown—performing only emergency surgeries.

Among the hospitals which will be affected are St. Joseph and Children's, both in the city of Orange.

In Sacramento, Brown warned that a long-term solution to the problem must be found by the lawmakers. He also announced his own suggestions for a "fundamental reform" of the medical malpractice system.

New 'bribes' by oil firms bared

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The disclosures that Gulf Oil Corp. made $5 million in secret political contributions to foreign government officials were followed by new government allegations that another company had maintained a secret fund for payoffs to foreign officials.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said Ashland Oil Co. paid $4 million in unnamed foreign countries over the past eight years. The SEC did not indicate in a suit filed in U.S. district court here the reasons for the expenditures.

Gulf Oil Chairman of the Board Bob Dorsey said Gulf made secret contributions to officials in South Korea, Bolivia, Lebanon and Italy starting in 1966.

Meanwhile in New York, Mobil Oil Corp. said its affiliates have made legal contributions to political campaigns in both Italy and Canada.

A Mobil spokesman said the political contributions were made "over a period of several years up until fairly recently." The amounts of the contributions, the recipients, and the specific dates of the political gifts are "in our affiliates' books," he said.

Dorsey said South Korean officials put extreme pressure on Gulf for contributions. Gulf donated $1 million in 1966, Dorsey said, but the Koreans demanded $10 million in 1970. After tough bargaining, the payment was finally lowered to $3 million.

It is illegal for corporations to make political contributions in South Korea, but Gulf attorneys accompanying Dorsey said they were not aware of the law at the time the payments were made.

Dorsey said the Pittsburgh-based company also made three contributions worth more than $400,000 to a former president of Bolivia, which also involved special leasing and eventual purchase of a helicopter.

Dorsey was the leadoff witness as a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee opened extensive hearings into corporate slush funds allegedly set up to buy friendly treatment from the governments of foreign countries in which they operate.

Subcommittee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said at the outset of the inquiry — expected to continue for months — that the United States "cannot close its eyes to this serious problem ... It is time to treat the issue for what it is: a serious foreign policy problem."

Dorsey, speaking so softly at times he barely could be heard, said the $4 million was given in two installments to the party of South Korean President Park Chung Hee, which badly needed political funds.

Scheduled to appear later at the subcommittee hearings are officials of United Brands, the Northrop Corporation, Ashland Oil and Phillips Petroleum.

Death sentence for bribe

By CHRISTOPHER WREN
New York Times Service

MOSCOW — The head of a Soviet business organization buying Western equipment has been sentenced to death for having accepted the equivalent of more than $150,000 in bribes from a Western firm seeking Soviet orders, it was reported here Friday.

The disclosure of the affair appeared to take Moscow's foreign commercial community by surprise. It is believed to be the first major reported case of corruption involving the Soviet Union's expanding trade with the West.

Yuri S. Sosnovsky, who was identified as the former general director of "Soyuzsplektromebel," of Timber and Wood Processing, was convicted by a Moscow court of having taken the payoffs from a Western businessman whom he met at an international trade exhibition here in the fall of 1973.

The businessman, identified as Walter Haeffelin, was arrested at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport last July as he reportedly arrived with 45,000 rubles — about $60,000 — for one of the payoffs. He has been sentenced to 10 years in a Soviet prison.

In revealing the hitherto secret details of the case, Nedelya, the weekend supplement of the government newspaper Izvestia, refrained from giving the nationality of either Haeffelin or his firm.

An informed source said the Western businessman was Swiss but could not confirm that his company, which was not identified, was also Swiss. The two men were convicted in March and are currently appealing the sentences, the source said.

The lengthy report in Nedelya, stressed the death sentence meted out, was taken as a stern warning to other Soviet officials and foreign businessmen against future abuses.

Haeffelin, who cooperated with the prosecution in the hope he would only be expelled, remains in a Soviet jail, the source reported.

An American commercial official, who like others was taken aback by the report, said he knew of no cases of bribery of Soviet officials involving American firms seeking to trade in the Soviet Union.

Sosnovsky first approached Haeffelin at the "Lesdrevmash" international exhibition of timber and wood processing equipment held in Moscow in 1973, the article reported. How their subsequent deals worked has not explained, though the businessman apparently first sold a granulator by trim-

Tip nets robbery suspects in 2-city police operation

Detectives in the City of Orange, working in a smooth and fast-moving joint operation with Long Beach investigators alerted through an Independent Press-Telegram Secret Witness tip, arrested three female armed robbery suspects four hours after the tip was received Thursday.

Nabbed in Orange after secret surveillance employing six Long Beach ground units and a helicopter were Toby Ann Meronas, 25; Kathleen Stone, 29, and Kathleen Clafcey, 24, all of 1034

Bennett Ave. in Long Beach.

If all or any of the suspects are convicted, Secret Witness informant QWH-211 will be eligible for a $500 reward.

Orange Det. Lou Walsh said $8,000 worth of jewelry taken at gunpoint from an elderly woman resident of Orange last Tuesday night by an armed woman bandit was recovered from the suspects' car at the time of the arrests.

"The two-city cooperative effort that resulted in the arrests was a fast and highly successful operation made possible entirely by your Secret Witness information," Walsh told the I.P.T.

The arrests bring the total number of criminal suspects apprehended through the Secret Witness program to 45, with $31,500 in reward money paid or committed on conviction.

Jackie 'grateful' to Onassis

Combined News Services

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis said she felt Aristotle Onassis "rescued me at a moment when my life was engulfed in shadows" and "he meant a lot to me."

She was quoted in an interview published Friday by the Athens daily Eleftheros Cosmos. The paper said the interview

"He brought me into a world where one could find both happiness and love," Mrs. Onassis said in the interview. "We lived through many beautiful experiences together which cannot be forgotten and for which I will be eternally grateful to him."

Mrs. Onassis said her ties with the Onassis family are "as close as ever."

"Nothing has changed, both with Aristotle's sisters and his daughter Christina. The same love binds us as when he lived."

Asked to comment on published reports that she planned to drop the name Onassis, that Onassis had planned to divorce her before he died, and that she was wrangling with his daughter Christina over the inheritance, she replied:

"I'll answer with something my husband (Onassis) often told me: 'Throughout the world people love fairy tales, and especially those related to the lives of the rich. You must learn to understand this and accept it.'"

The journalism department of Long Island University has announced it was giving a special George Polk Memorial award to Sydney H. Schanberg, the correspondent of The New York Times who remained in Cambodia to report on the fall of Phnom Penh to the Khmer Rouge.

Prof. Jacob Jaffe, curator of the Polk awards, said the citation of Schanberg marked the first time since 1949 that a newsman was being added to the group of regular Polk winners after formal announcement of the awards, two weeks ago.

Political asylum in the U.S. for a Russian scientist who jumped ship here is under consideration, officials said Friday in Honolulu.

Vyacheslav Kovalev, 27, of Moscow, left the oceanographic research ship Dmitry Mendeleev Thursday and asked the U.S. attorney's office here for asylum, said John F. O'Shea, Hawaii district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Details of the defection were not made public.

A decision on the asylum request is not expected for several weeks.

A woman climber has conquered Mt. Everest for the first time as part of an all-women Japanese expedition, the Nepalese Foreign Ministry announced early today.

The ministry said Junko Tabei, 35, of Japan's Saitama prefecture, reached the 29,028-foot summit of the world's highest peak Friday.

Before leaving Katmandu for Everest, Mrs. Tabei had told reporters: "Women are not so strong as men. But we can also climb the mountain slowly. Now I think only about climbing."

Anne Hearst, 19, sister of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, was granted another delay Friday of her preliminary hearing on a drug charge.

Anne Hearst, a student at Regis College in Denver, Colo., and Donald Moffett, 21, also of Denver, were arrested on a misdemeanor charge of possession of a controlled substance March 4 while crossing from Canada into the U.S. at Niagara Falls. Federal agents said 12 amphetamine pills, commonly called "speed," were found in one of Moffett's socks. The agents quoted both Miss Hearst and Moffett as saying the pills belonged to her.

Tanker rams boat; 4 lost

Combined News Services

NANTUCKET, Mass. — A 484-foot Liberian tanker accidentally rammed and sank a 72-foot fishing boat 63 miles southeast of here Friday in nearly impenetrable fog, the Coast Guard reported. Two fishermen were rescued by the tanker but four were still missing. The tanker, the Grand Justice, whose cargo was not identified, radioed the Coast Guard just before 1 p.m. that it had accidentally struck the fishing vessel at the southwest end of Georges Bank, a prime fishing area. The visibility was 50 feet at the time, the Coast Guard said. A Coast Guard cutter and a helicopter searched the vicinity for several hours.

Integration queries

WASHINGTON — The government asked officials of 115 school districts in 16 southern and border states Friday to explain why some of their schools have a disproportion of white and black pupils. Acting under federal court order, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare gave the school systems until June 30 to reply. The states involved are Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia. If a school district fails to provide the requested information by the deadline, legal proceedings would have to begin.

Blastoff delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Lightning striking near the launch pads at this space center has forced a second postponement in the launch of twin military communications satellites, Air Force officials announced Friday. They set 9:57 a.m. Tuesday for the launch of the satellites aboard a Titan 3C rocket. The launch of the so-called "Triple 7" satellites to expand the Defense Department's space communications system around the globe originally was scheduled for May 13.

Black power leader hanged

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad — Michael Abdul Malik, who as "Michael X" was a major figure in London's black power movement in the 1960s, was hanged Friday in his native Trinidad for the machete murder of his cousin. Malik, 41, died on the gallows at the royal jail despite urgent last-minute pleas for commutation of his sentence by such well known black activists as Angela Davis and Dick Gregory, members of an international "Save Malik" committee. There were no demonstrations to mark his hanging, the first on this southern Caribbean island in recent years. A charismatic leader of blacks in London a decade ago, Malik established a commune in eastern Trinidad following his return here from England in 1970. He was charged with the murder of his cousin, Joseph Skerritt, a barber who belonged to the commune. Malik also was charged with another murder but was never tried on that count.

India annexes Sikkim

NEW DELHI — India formally incorporated Sikkim as its 22nd state Friday, ignoring a Chinese charge that the action was an "illegal annexation." President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed signed a constitutional document empowering New Delhi to reduce the tiny Himalayan kingdom from a protectorate to a full-fledged Indian state. The document also abolished the 344-year-old institution of the Chogyal, or king, of Sikkim. The Chogyal, 52-year-old Palden Thondup Namgyal, has been confined for the past month to his two-story palace in the Sikkimese capital of Gangtok by Indian security forces. In a referendum last month, the Sikkimese people voted 59,637 to 1,496 to join India and abolish the monarchy.

AF radicalization

LISBON — The government nationalized five more companies Friday and launched an effort to radicalize the air force in its drive to turn Portugal into a left-wing Socialist state. The move within the military was initiated by a recently promoted colonel identified with the radical wing of the ruling Armed Forces Movement being named to command the air force. Col. Jose Morais da Silva, 34, was given the post and raised to the rank of a four-star general. He said his main task would be to destroy any right-wing influence among the air force's pilots and paratroopers.

Revolutionary scene

CONCORD, MASS. — Fifty Russian sailors Friday visited the birthplace of the American Revolution. They trudged through muddy Lexington Green — scene of the first battle between Minutemen and British — and over the rain-soaked "rude bridge" at Concord, where "once the embattled farmer stood and fired the shot heard 'round the world." The Soviets are officers and crewmen of two Russian destroyers visiting Boston for six days while two American warships are visiting Leningrad.

Identity Problem

WASHINGTON — Acting on the theory that you cannot tell a congressman, especially a freshman, from the tourists or page boys, the House is going to equip its members with identifying lapel pins. The House Administration Committee approved the project this week after complaints from some House members, mostly first-term, youthful members, that they were being stopped by Capitol police for identification. Some even had to open their brief cases as part of the surveillance operations in the Capitol. House Sergeant at Arms Ken Harding has been ordered to purchase 435 lapel pins at a cost not to exceed $5.25 per pin.

Cocaine abandoned

MIAMI — A customs inspector at Miami International Airport found an abandoned suitcase Friday containing 46.2 pounds of cocaine which agents said had a street value of $9.8 million. The suitcase came in on a Lan-Chile flight from Chile and was found on a luggage rack in the customs area. Inspectors routinely check abandoned luggage for duty items or illegal items before turning it over to the airport lost and found. The cocaine, wrapped in plastic bags inside a burlap sack, was turned over to federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents, but an effort to deliver it to a suspect failed.

Blood business

GENEVA — Commercial trade in human blood is widespread and lucrative with firms buying blood from poor countries and selling it to wealthier lands at profits of up to 1,000 per cent, the World Health Organization said Friday. The health agency said the "blood for sale" practice not only threatens the accepted concept of voluntary donations but could constitute a major health hazard because donors may be alcoholics or drug addicts, thus increasing the chance for transmission of disease. Furthermore, poorer people who can least afford to part with their blood for reasons of health are being encouraged to do so for the money, WHO said.

Arab arms industry

CAIRO — The first project for a new Arab arms organization recently formed by Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates will be to resume production of a light jet fighter called the Cairo 300, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said Friday. In an interview over Kuwaiti television published in Cairo newspapers, Sadat described the Cairo 300 as "an excellent light fighter." A prototype of the plane — designed in Spain, powered by a British engine and assembled in Egypt — first flew in March 1964. But production was later discontinued. Egypt and the three oil-rich Persian Gulf states on May 10 announced plans for an Arab arms industry with a capital of more than $1 billion. The move has been viewed as an attempt by Sadat to lessen Egypt's dependence on the Soviet Union for the bulk of its weapons.

Air nationalization

ADDIS ABABA — The Ethiopian provisional military government Friday announced the nationalization of all private aircraft companies, individually owned light planes and four foreign-owned supermarkets. A government statement said the "transfer to public ownership" of the aircraft firms and planes was because "some of the light aircraft have been used to smuggle out of the country currency and foreign nationals who had made their fortunes in Ethiopia." The planes will be taken over by the national carrier Ethiopian Airlines and be used to expand its domestic services. The government exempted from the action light aircraft being used by missionaries for educational and health services.

Suspect faces trial in 'sword-cane' death

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

leading up to the April 25 death of 52-year-old Harold G. Lane.

A 36-year-old Long Beach man Friday was held to answer on a murder charge stemming from the bizarre slaying of a man, allegedly stabbed with a sword-cane after he intervened in a marital dispute.

Morris Ray Price was bound over for trial after a two-day preliminary hearing at which witnesses testified to events

A CORONER'S deputy told the Municipal Court of Judge Kenneth Sutherland that Lane may never have known he was injured until his heart—pierced by a thin-bladed weapon—suddenly convulsed and stopped.

Witnesses told the court it was Lane who helped Price's wife, Laura, and Price's two daughters find a motel room after the woman moved out of the Price home at 240 E. Artesia Blvd.

Lane and another man were visiting her at the motel when Price allegedly arrived, slapped the woman and took the two girls, aged 7 and 8, home with him.

Marcos Rios, a neighbor of Price's, testified the defendant accompanied him to Lane's nearby apartment, at 238 Artesia, a few nights later.

Rios told the court he entered the apartment first; a moment later Price entered and exchanged words with Lane.

PRICE — who witnesses said frequently carried a sword cane—suddenly unsheathed the blade, Rios testified, and thrust it towards Lane.

Rios said he was unable to see if the blade touched Lane, but Lane seemed unhurt for he walked to a couch and sat down.

A moment later, Rios said, Price and he left the apartment.

Other witnesses testified that, about 9 a.m. the next morning, Lane's body was found on the floor near the couch.

The first police to arrive saw no blood or other evidence of violence and thought Lane may have died of natural causes, according to prosecutor Paul Marin.

But Marin said that Dr. Eugene Carpenter, the coroner's deputy who conducted an autopsy on the victim, testified Lane's heart had been pierced by a blade that left only a tiny slit.

THE physician said the wound caused almost no external bleeding. With such wounds, he said, the victim may feel no more pain than a slight prick at the moment the blade strikes.

'Not guilty' pleaded in gun case

The former president of a Lakewood citizens group and unsuccessful candidate in the March special City Council election Friday pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from a May 9 shooting incident.

Jackson A. Adkins, 40, of 11888 E. 205th St., was told to appear May 27 for a preliminary hearing at his arraignment before Judge Roberta Butzbach in Los Cerritos Municipal Court in Bellflower.

The hearing was set for 9:30 a.m. in Department 3.

According to sheriff's deputies, Adkins was driving on 205th Street when he pulled up behind a bike ridden by Darryl A. Baca, 13.

The deputies said that a group of boys, who had been walking on the sidewalk parallel to Baca as he rode in the street, told them that Baca and Adkins exchanged heated words over who had the right-of-way.

Adkins, according to the deputies, then allegedly pulled out a .38-caliber revolver and fired one shot at the fleeing youth, striking Baca in the left shoulder. Baca, originally listed in satisfactory condition, has been released from Cerritos Gardens Hospital.

Adkins has been released on $3,000 bail.

The Del Amo Service Road, which runs along the edge of our housing tract beside Del Amo Boulevard between Graywood and Pepperwood avenues, is something else. At one point, two cars cannot pass because of foliage, gets muddy spots when it rains, dusty when it's hot and it's been an eyesore for years. When we ride our bicycles we are sometimes crowded into the mud by passing cars. Can something be done about this? Mrs. W.G.E., Long Beach.

The conditions along the road should be improved soon. We brought your complaint to the attention of Leonard Marshall in the city engineer's office who arranged for the Park Department to dig out the weeds that were extending several feet into the road. He said he would check with you about the mud problem and have it patched to take care of this. The property north of the road is in Lakewood and the Los Angeles Flood Control District has an easement there. Marshall said it is very unlikely that the access road will ever be widened beyond its 24 feet because to do so would require getting land from Lakewood and the Flood Control District, then working out maintenance responsibilities.

Nonprofit

A group of individuals and myself would like to start a nonprofit organization for charitable purposes. How do we go about getting official recognition as a nonprofit group? T.H., Long Beach.

You should start by picking up an application for state tax exempt status from the local Franchise Tax Board, 3530 Atlantic Ave. If you want to incorporate as a nonprofit organization, you must file this application, a copy of your proposed bylaws and your group's articles of incorporation (which outlines how your group will operate) with the California Secretary of State, 111 Capitol Mall, Sacramento, Calif. 95814. If you want to be simply an unincorporated association, you file the tax exempt application with the Franchise Tax Board, Sacramento, Calif. 95857. This application explains the different ways you can set up your group and contains a sample articles of incorporation, which you can use as a guide. The filing fee is $15 for the corporation report and $10 for the tax exempt form. If your application is approved, you then will be contacted by the state's Registry of Charitable Trusts, which will require your group to file annual financial reports with this agency to maintain its nonprofit status. To be recognized as a charitable organization by the U.S. government and avoid paying income tax, you must apply for federal tax-exempt status. To obtain an application, write to Chief, EPEO Division, Internal Revenue Service, P.O. Box 2350, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

Agreement disagreement

On April 14, I paid a $200 deposit on an apartment at the International Towers, 666 Ocean Blvd. Marguerite Hines, the manager, gave me an application to complete and mail back to her, and if my application was approved, she would prepare a lease and I would take occupancy June 15. I was not notified that my application was approved or that the lease was ready to be signed. I stopped by April 23 and when I saw the terms of the lease, I decided it was unacceptable. I asked for my deposit back, but Mrs. Hines refused, saying I should pay for the time the apartment was off the market. Since the time it was off the market was only from April 14 to 23 and since it was understood from the start that I wouldn't move in until June 15, I think my deposit should be returned. C.S., Long Beach.

The International Towers will refund a portion of your deposit only if the apartment you had selected is rented to someone else by June 15. Mrs. Hines maintains that you and your brother were approved as tenants on April 5 under a special arrangement whereby you would work part-time for the International Towers in exchange for renting the apartment at half the normal rate. She said you definitely agreed to rent the unit on April 5 and the apartment was off the market for almost three weeks. If the apartment is rented by June 15, Mrs. Hines said the amount of your refund will be based on how long it took her to rent the unit.

Civitan

I've been told that a group called Civitan sends local high school students to Sacramento to observe our state government in action, but I never heard of this organization before. Can Action Line find out anything about this group? J.B., Long Beach.

Civitan is a nationwide men's service organization similar to the Kiwanis or Rotary clubs, but it is particularly known for its government classroom program for high school students. Every year, the Long Beach chapter of Civitan, for example, sends five local high school students to Sacramento where they sit in on legislative sessions and various government committee meetings for five days. Each high school in the Long Beach Unified School District nominates several students and the final selection is then made by Civitan members after interviewing each applicant. All of the students' travel and lodging expenses are paid by the national organization. The Long Beach chapter also raises funds each year for the Long Beach Retarded Children's Foundation. The organization was founded in Alabama in 1920, and the name was taken from the Latin word "civitas" meaning citizenship. For more information, contact Zino Bove, president of the Long Beach chapter, at 596-6517 or 431-4524.

Repeal of smog rule criticized

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state's repeal of emergency smog measures will hurt the general health and will require federal intervention, the federal Environmental Protection Agency said Friday.

"It is regrettable that the California State Air Resources Board took an action yesterday which will have an adverse effect on the health of the citizens of California," Paul DePalco Jr., the EPA's Region 9 administrator, said in a statement.

"THEY have abdicated their responsibility for dealing with emergency air pollution episodes," DePalco added. "Now, federal intervention will again be required in what should be a joint state and local program to protect the public health."

The Air Resources Board Thursday repealed plans for emergency actions to be taken during heavy smog periods. The plans, originally adopted by the ARB in 1973, would have required businesses, offices and recreational facilities to limit or cease operations.

Cal. population tops 21 million

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's population has topped 21 million, state officials reported Friday. The State Department of Finance said estimates set the number of California residents at 21,030,245 on Jan. 1 — an increase of 247,100 over the 1974 total. Los Angeles' population dropped nearly one per cent since Jan. 1, 1974, officials said, to 2.72 million. It is followed in size by San Diego, 766,100; San Francisco, 671,100, and San Jose, 547,500.

Other cities among the state's 10 biggest are: Long Beach, 339,600; Oakland, 330,600; Sacramento, 262,100; Anaheim, 191,800; Fresno, 175,900, and Santa Ana, 174,800.

San Jose had the largest numerical gain over the last year, with an increase of 18,600. San Diego was second with 16,700.

Thousand Oaks had the biggest percentage increase among cities with populations over 50,000: 7.62 per cent. La Mirada topped small cities with a 19.9 per cent jump.

Three other cities showed gains of more than 18 per cent: San Marcos, San Juan Capistrano and Villa Park.

Degree secrecy OK at colleges

ROHNERT PARK (AP) — The California State College system is telling senior students they may keep their upcoming graduation secret under a new federal privacy law, officials report here.

Sonoma State College officials here announced Thursday in an off-campus newspaper that students have the right to object to publication of their names in news releases and brochures for the May 23 graduation ceremonies here.

Sonoma State officials said they received a memorandum from the State College chancellor's office in Los Angeles, instructing the college and other campuses to notify graduating seniors about their rights under the federal Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, effective last Jan. 1.

THE ACT also gives students the right to stop school publications from including certain other personal information such as age, address, telephone number and in some cases even height and weight. Failure to comply could mean loss of federal funds.

But campus Public Affairs Director Carl Campbell said no students had excluded themselves from the brochure by Friday, and he noted that normally only "two or three" students ask that their names be omitted for various reasons.

Regents rap minority policy

Brown suggests UC teacher limit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Brown said Friday the University of California should consider limiting the number of teachers it trains.

The monthly UC Regents' meeting also included attacks by Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally and Regent Fred Dutton on university policies toward workers and minorities.

Brown, who has played the role of gadfly at the Regents' sessions since taking office, said the regents should talk about limiting teacher education because of declining public school enrollment.

"How do we decide how many places we make available?" the governor asked. "Perhaps there ought to be some limits."

He quoted a recent Carnegie Commission report as saying the number of jobs available in the next 10 years has no relation to the number of college degrees awarded.

"This is something the university is going to have to face up to in enrollment figures," Brown said.

Brown hit as 'soft' on crime

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown is soft on crime and it is unlikely any inmate will die in San Quentin's apple-green gas chamber during his administration, a Republican legislator said Friday. "I sincerely doubt in his term of office we will see the death penalty imposed in this state," Sen. H. L. Richardson told a Capitol news conference.

The conservative lawmaker from Arcadia said the Democratic governor, in his first 4½ months in office, has started tearing down the last decade's tough prison policies.

THE BROWN administration, he said, has shown "greater compassion for the criminal" than the law-abiding citizen. He added that Brown's appointees mirror his administration philosophy.

"If you wonder what happened to the campus disrupters of the 1960s, many of them shaved, trimmed their hair and are now in the Brown administration," he said. Brown appointees "have made careers out of pushing for legalization of marijuana, going to court on behalf of prison inmates and creating disruption in our present penal system," he said.

Richardson said Paul Halvonik, the governor's director of legislative affairs, in July 1974 "while entering San Quentin to counsel a prisoner, was found to be carrying a substance prison authorities described as marijuana."

HE SAID Halvonik, a former American Civil Liberties Union attorney, "represented the ACLU in an attack on the prison system."

Halvonik has a record of "radical activism" including protests against war, nuclear tests, the loyalty oath and capital punishment, Richardson said.

His comments on other Brown appointees included:

—Mario Obledo, Health and Welfare secretary, once was a counsel for inmates at Leavenworth Prison in Kansas and favors "a reduction in prison population very definitely — and very quickly."

—J. Anthony Kline, director of legal affairs, has "admitted to spending much of his time suing the Department of Corrections on behalf of prisoners."

—Alice Daniel, deputy legal affairs secretary, is a former American Civil Liberties Union regional board member who "has spoken at conferences on prisoners' rights. She has represented a prisoner in a suit against the parole board and she has endorsed the legalization of marijuana."

He later told a news conference the university may be "holding out a promise we can't fulfill," adding that if the regents don't ask such questions, "others will have to ask them in Sacramento."

UC President Charles Hitch said the university tells would-be teachers about the job market and lets them decide whether to enroll. He also jabbed back at Brown over the governor's attempts to lower UC's medical school budget.

"It's a more serious problem that many more students are taking pre-medical courses than can get into medical school," Hitch said.

The outbursts by Dymally and Dutton came after lengthy presentations by the chancellors of the San Diego and Irvine campuses about their academic plans. Both talks focused on the schools' strong points.

"This is basically a publicity blurb," said Dutton, a longtime dissident on the regents.

He said the report on UC Irvine glossed over several controversies, including minority enrollment. He suggested the school, and UC as a whole, put too much money into affluent suburbs and not enough into inner cities.

"I'm not going to let you get away with saying you're doing a great job with Chicanos," Dutton said. "Your figures are lousy."

UC Irvine Chancellor Daniel Aldrich said the school is trying to play more of a role in poorer areas of Orange County, but agreed there was much room for improvement.

Dymally chimed in that the university should set up satellite campuses in low-income areas, like Mexican-American sections of Santa Ana and San Diego.

"I'm opposed to middle-class elite education," the black lieutenant governor said. "I am a spokesman on this board for rednecks and hardhats and minorities, and until this institution gives me some indication they are not part of the ripoff I will continue to protest."

'Red, round, rubbery'

Activists blast tomato 'plot'

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Red, round and rubbery.

That's how many American consumers describe the tomatoes on sale in many supermarkets.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture asked 1,800 persons to rate 31 food products. Tomatoes wound up at the bottom of the list, with respondents complaining about price, ripeness, taste and appearance.

Consumer activists have charged that mass-marketed tomatoes are an example of what happens when big business and farmers get together. They say quality has been sacrificed to quantity and ease of handling. "Hard Tomatoes, Hard Times," a 1972 report by the Agribusiness Accountability Project, alleged that land-grant colleges and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have used tax funds to finance research on developing vegetables designed to be grown on huge farms.

Growers and scientists say they are trying to improve the tomato without making it so expensive to produce that prices will soar out of sight. They argue that the reality of the marketplace demands that the tomatoes must be hardy enough to be picked by machine and to withstand shipping in the packing and bruising process.

In recent years, breeders have developed tomatoes that can be picked by machine in a state known as "mature green." The tomatoes are sent to warehouses where they are artificially ripened with natural ethylene gas.

Just about everyone admits that these tomatoes don't taste like the ones grown in the backyard and ripened on the vine.

"Tomatoes ripened on the plant generally have a better flavor than those ripened in commercial market channels," said Bob Showalter of the University of Florida at Gainesville.

Showalter was speaking to a group of store executives in Dallas at the annual convention of the Super Market Institute, explaining about the development of a new kind of tomato — the Florida MHI.

He challenged statements by a Florida grower who said plant breeders were interested only in how many tomatoes they could get per acre.

"There was a time when vegetable breeders sought primarily high yield, appearance and disease resistance," he said. "But now a breeding program also strives for good flavor, firmness, suitability for machine harvest and other quality characteristics that will permit shipping from production areas to distant markets."

It would be nice to be able to pick tomatoes by hand, he said, but added: "If we can't afford to pick by hand, we're going to have to pick by machine." The MHI is firmer than ordinary tomatoes, a factor that has led some militant consumer activists to charge that it will bounce if you drop it. Its advantage, however, is that it can be picked already ripe.

Showalter said two Florida growers are producing the new variety of tomato and people who have eaten the MHI say it generally is better than the kind normally found in supermarkets, although it doesn't have the flavor of a freshly picked tomato. It is a deeper red than other varieties and no more expensive.

Thus far, however, the MHI tomato is being sold only in Florida, in areas within 100 miles of where it is grown.

What's going to happen if the MHI is produced on a large scale and shipped hundreds of miles?

Showalter admits he is not sure. "We are aware that quality can be adversely affected during distribution to distant markets, but we think that produce distributors and supermarkets in various parts of the United States should at least try our ripe tomato," he said.

Grand Jury hears Lansky

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Reputed underworld financier Meyer Lansky testified for about 90 minutes Friday before a grand jury investigating illegal gambling operations in Florida.

Lansky left the grand jury room on numerous occasions to confer with attorney David Rosen of Miami.

Housing upturn 'weak'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Friday that the number of new housing units started increased in April, but industry economists said the strength of the upturn was disappointing.

"It's not all that bad, but it's not that good, either," said Robert Sheehan, an economist for the National Association of Home Builders.

The result was further undermining of administration projections for the general economic recovery anticipated for mid-year.

The Commerce Department said housing starts in April were at an annual rate of 890,000, up from 974,000 in March but 37 per cent below a year ago. At the same time, the department revised its February estimate upward for the second time, this time to the one million level.

The number of new building permits issued, which usually anticipate construction activity by three to six months, moved up to an annual rate of 897,000 the highest since August.

Even so, the April construction activity came in the face of surging sales in March, when single-family homes sold at the fastest rate since September, and represented the first full month of construction since passage of a new law permitting a tax credit of up to $2,000 for buyers of new homes built before March 26.

With such encouragement for home building, Sheehan said, his trade association had expected the housing starts rate to top one million in April.

In light of the latest statistics, Sheehan said, home builders must revise down — for the second time — a starts level which had originally been projected at 1.35 million for the whole year. A revision to below 1.3 million, which Sheehan indicated would be necessary, would mean even less construction activity than last year, which was the worst since 1967.

"We're still sure we're bottoming out in the second quarter," said Sheehan. "But we're not sure how strong the upturn will be or when it will come. You're starting to get through the major part of the construction season now without a very strong signal."

The administration originally had expected the housing industry to lead the way out of the recession as interest rates dropped in response to slack demand. But interest rates have become sticky and the administration has gradually revised its projections to show the recovery preceding the housing revival, with housing later giving the recovery enough muscle to cut down on unemployment.

But that scenario has assumed starts would hit 1.5 million by yearend. Now Sheehan says the home builders, who had been using the same 1.5 million projection, must revise that downward, too.

Indochina war total amnesty bill proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new proposal of amnesty for draft resisters, deserters and soldiers who refused to fight because of opposition to the Indochina war emerged Friday in a House subcommittee.

The proposed bill would provide blanket amnesty to violators signing a special certificate swearing their misconduct "resulted because of disapproval of the military involvement of the United States in Indochina."

Servicemen who disobeyed an order that could "reasonably have led to the death of another human being" would be eligible for amnesty along with draft-resisters and deserters.

The proposal was disclosed at a meeting of the House civil liberties subcommittee called to discuss whether the subcommittee should try at all. No decision was reached.

Chairman Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., announced he will call another meeting in June for a subcommittee decision on approving far-reaching amnesty, limited amnesty or no bill at all.

Although no members committed themselves exclusively to the proposal drafted by the subcommittee staff, it was understood to have the support for now of Kastenmeier, and Democratic Reps. Robert F. Drinan of Massachusetts and Herman Badillo and Edward W. Pattison of New York.

Kastenmeier said that proposal and others in Congress going beyond a continuation of President Ford's expired clemency program might face his veto.

The proposal would grant amnesty for anyone convicted of deserting mili-

Women 'equally liable for draft'

BUTTE, Mont. (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Friday that the draft is unconstitutional unless women are taken along with men.

U.S. District Judge W. D. Murray dismissed an indictment against Kenneth Reiser, who had been accused of refusing to be drafted.

Reiser fought the charges with the argument that the draft discriminates for sex and, therefore, is unconstitutional.

Agreeing with him, Murray declared: "The draft resulting in compulsory military service is one of the most serious and onerous duties of citizenship."

"All citizens, male and female, must be subject to the draft on an equal basis."

Reiser had refused to be drafted in 1972. He had described the Selective Service program as "a statutory scheme which established sex-based classification which burdens and penalizes members of one sex and not the other."

No one is being drafted now, but males are required to register under Selective Service.

tary duty or failing to register for the draft or otherwise resisting it between Jan. 1, 1961, and May 1, 1975.

It would also grant amnesty for any serviceman convicted during that period of "disobeying a direct order, which order could reasonably have led to the death of another human being."

In each case the amnesty would be granted only upon the violator's signing of the special certificate declaring the reason for his conduct was his opposition to the Indochina war.

Other major proposals in Congress would continue President Ford's clemency board until Dec. 31, 1976, grant unconditional amnesty for all protest actions during the war and grant unconditional amnesty only to deserters and draft resisters.

People and ideas

On growing very old

By MARK CLUTTER
Religion Editor

The death this week of my friend, Tom Fatherson, at the age of 104, aroused thoughts about growing old and especially very old. What is it like to remember a century?

Tom — he wouldn't like to be called "Major" or even "Mister" — was one of the best loved men in Long Beach. Any wonderful word you can say about a man was right for Tom. He was a gentleman, patriot, Christian, leader of men, loving father, good sport, intellectual and friend of all sorts and conditions of men.

He was also the absolute monarch of Long Beach lawn bowlers, a role he carried with light merriment. From 1949 until he suffered a broken hip last February he rolled the bowls five days a week.

On the day before his peaceful death he and his daughter reread and discussed Shakespeare's "Tempest."

Tom had no right to live so long. When he was a college student in Iowa the Spanish American War occurred. He promptly enlisted — and nearly died of typhoid fever.

In World War I, when he was already overage for service, he became a captain in the railroad engineers. (He was a railroad executive.) The regiment, the first foreign troops to parade in London since William the Conqueror, was reviewed by King George V before being sent to Verdun. Month after month in constant mortal danger he helped supply that besieged fortress.

In 1940 he retired, but he felt he had to serve when World War II came. So he went back to work building and running a railway in Louisiana until 1949.

How can one explain people like Tom? Why do they live so long and so happily?

THERE IS no complete answer, of course. It is partly genes. One lives a long time because his grandparents did.

But there is more to it than that. As one studies the very old he gets a little insight in how to live at any age.

I knew this well-dressed, ram-rod straight gentleman of 104. He summed up his philosophy in a way which might be the essence of theology: "Never be afraid to live and never be afraid to die. We are in God's hand."

The old guy was quite a Don Juan. All he had to do was smile and say something pleasant like "Hello." The women flocked around him. "I never thought I would pick up a man in a restaurant," a sedate chick of 50 said.

He was addicted to

sports events and liked a glass of whisky in good company.

ANOTHER kind of older was a paper-thin black woman. As we talked a 5-year-old great great granddaughter nestled against her, very much in love.

"Whatever you say about me, tell them I was never a slave."

She was not a slave because she was legally an Indian, but she had spent most of her life changing diapers and scrubbing pans for the Southern aristocracy.

She was never a slave! She quoted the 23rd Psalm:

"Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death

"I will fear no evil."

THE LATE great Lord Bertrand Russell, philosopher, reprobate and gadfly of warmakers, was asked at the age of 95: "What is it like to be so old?"

"It ain't bad. Not half bad. I have written 20 books since my 80th birthday."

The old man smoked a pipe constantly and is said to have drunk daily enough whisky to disorganize a man half his age.

One can also respect a true pacifist who says, "I won't fight and you can't make me."

In other times and places they have gone to the firing squads without flinching.

But what can one say for unscrubbed, drug-addled, draft-evading, non-working, bank-burning "students"? Or for the intellectuals, politicians and clergymen who defend them?

Maybe the Cambodia incident is the beginning of a new American way of life abroad and at home.

PASTORS, it seems to many people in the pews, are playing with fire these days. Many critics feel that the clergy have lost contact with the spirit of the times.

The 1960s were a time of revolutionary change in the churches. Ancient customs were abruptly changed or discarded. The Catholics dropped the Latin Mass. Theologians invented brand new heresies. There was a lot of change for the sake of change. The devout often became confused.

Many forgot that the church — any church — is essentially a conservative institution. It exists to keep and promote truths that were discovered long ago.

Of course, effective churches must live in their times. Ancient truths must be restated in the world of today. In the 1960s protest and innovation reflected the temper of the general society.

But the 1960s are gone. Today people are yearning for stability and certainty. We have lived through a dishonored Presidency and a lost war. There is unemployment and an unstable economy. Even our streets are unsafe.

Many would like a church to be a sanctuary. They would like the shelter of "the Rock of Ages." They would like to have doctrine and customs which do not shift with the wind.

Those pastors who don't recognize the changed temper of this decade will begin to see more and more empty pews on Sundays.

TIME WAS when ornery sailors in the Royal Navy, had crucifixes and other pictures of Christ tattooed on their backs. Their motive was more practical than pious. They knew no master at arms would commit sacrilege by flogging the likeness of the Lord.

Until recently many churches had no locks. People entered day or night for prayer and or to be alone with their thoughts. Evil-doers shunned churches, believing perhaps that God's wrath would find them there.

Those times have passed. In a major Los Angeles church an armed, uniformed guard patrols night and day. Across the nation there is a high tide of crimes against churches.

Most of it is vandalism and pilfering — an older word is desecration. But there have also been armed robberies, rapes and murders. A young woman praying in a church at Stanford University was murdered.

Such offenses, which must be related to Satanism, demand the attention of social psychologists and the police. Why in a so-called secular age must so many try to attack the Almighty?

And church boards should call in police experts to learn how to provide maximum security for places of worship.

CIA testimony 'gaps' told

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are indications of unexplained gaps in documents the CIA has turned over to the Senate Intelligence Committee, chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Friday.

Asked if he thought the gaps were deliberate, Church said he didn't know, adding: "We will investigate it."

Church refused to say what documents the gaps occurred in or how many there were. However, he made clear that he was not referring to the previously reported destruction of telephone tapes by former CIA Director Richard M. Helms.

At a briefing for reporters, Church also said he expected his committee to begin public hearings in July and continue them into September. Church said he hoped the committee could issue a final report before the end of the year.

Areas of alleged domestic wrongdoing by the CIA would be the subject of public hearings, Church said, but the committee "would not be disposed" to hold public hearings on foreign covert operations.

In addition to the CIA, the committee is investigating the FBI, IRS, and at least a dozen other agencies which perform intelligence functions.

Church confirmed that CIA Director William E.

Colby had testified under oath about alleged agency involvement in foreign assassinations when he appeared before the committee Thursday. Church refused to elaborate, saying: "I'm not commenting on his testimony."

Asked if he has been shocked by anything he has learned so far, Church replied: "By now I'm shock-proof. I'm ashamed to say it, but I'm not going to say anything more on that subject."

Army again using beagles in tests

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — The U.S. Army is again using beagle puppies in drug and chemical-related experiments at Edgewood Arsenal, but an Army spokesman said Friday the dogs are not being used for research in chemical-biological warfare.

The Army also said it has notified Congress of its intention to use the animals, although several legislators reportedly notified by the Army cannot recall being told.

The use of beagles for nerve-gas experiments by the Army came to light last spring, and objections eventually led to passage of a law prohibiting their use in experiments with poisonous chemicals, gases and radioactivity for chemical-biological warfare research.

The American Humane Society and various antivivisectionist groups had protested the use of the dogs and several members of Congress, including Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., pressured to halt their use.

The spokesman said the arsenal had received 100 dogs as part of an expected shipment of 450 to be used in research dealing with the ability to tolerate toxic levels of insecticides, detergents, adhesives and aerosols.

The spokesman said the researchers also plan to use the dogs in a series of experiments on methods of disposing of chemical warfare agents.

Joseph Penton, a public information officer for the U.S. Army Materiel Procurement Office in Washington, said that the dogs would not be used in any experiments dealing with chemical-biological warfare in order to comply with a law passed by Congress last August.

Another set of experiments with the dogs, all under one year of age, involves the effects of nonlethal antiriot control devices.

Recently the Army also has been criticized for shooting rubber pellets at monkeys, dogs and horses to discover the effectiveness of various nonlethal weapons in controlling riots.

Rites set for Col. Propst

Funeral services for Air Force Col. John Robert Propst, 55, who died Thursday, will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at Dillard Family Chapel. Burial will be Arlington National Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Bajusz Propst; daughter, Betty Lou Propst, Montgomery, Ala.; son, Robert B. Propst, Macon, Ga.; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Propst, Long Beach, and sister, Mrs. Howard Erskine, New York City.

Right Source

Religion Editor,

You ask if love is the answer or the problem. It's both. It's the problem when you don't have it, and it's the answer when you do.

"Love, like everything else, must be tapped at the right source. God is our only source of love ("God is love" — 1 John 4:8).

We draw love from God through Jesus Christ; He is "the word made flesh" (John 1:14). As we give up the Bible, we give up our source of love and life becomes death with all of its accompanying attributes.

Playboy sex depicts man in this death-struggle; but it is still true that "there is no victory without honor."

Truly,
Mrs. Fred B. Dunn
Long Beach

Thanks

Religion Editor:

We have had many fine comments about your excellent article on the First Congregational Church.

Members of our church were very pleased. Non-members have also expressed their appreciation for our ministry as they have seen it through your written word.

We sincerely appreciate the relaxed spirit of your interview, and the resulting sensitively written article featuring the ministries of our church.

David M. Reed
SENIOR MINISTER

Over-emphasis

Religion Editor:

It is my opinion that there is too much emphasis today placed on sex. Sex is only a part of life, and not the beginning or the end. It is something that should come naturally to men and women, starting with love first and then falling into its proper perspective. It should not be flaunted at people or preached like it was the gospel. It is hard to place everyone in the same category regarding sex. Some may find it impossible to abstain before marriage and they should let their conscience be their guide. Others with worthwhile goals and activities may not find it too much of a problem to wait until the right one comes along.

Regarding the law permitting sexual activities between consenting adults, it should be repealed. There are lots of people who can be easily influenced by others especially the insecure and troubled personalities. It is just adding another problem to an already confused society, where practically everything immoral is permitted and even encouraged. In the beginning God made sex to bring men and women together and to add beauty to their lives, not to be used as a weapon to destroy them, which is what the constant ballyhoo on sex today is doing.

Love can include sex but sex alone rarely includes love.

Divine spark

Religion Editor:

In regard to your editorial "Readers, What About War?" (April 4, 1975), the Religious Society of Friends has always opposed war and has been in the forefront of religious bodies seeking peaceful means to settle conflict, personal, national, and international. Since the days of George Fox, our founder, Friends have held that "There is that of God in every man." We have sought to reach that divine spark which can bring forth good and reason in lieu of killing and destruction.

Since the 1954 Geneva Accords, Friends have attempted to bring reconciliation for both sides in Vietnam. Failing this, Friends have helped both sides by operating a hospital for amputees in South Vietnam and have sent medical supplies to North Vietnam.

I am sure it will always be the goal of the Religious Society of Friends to bring peace instead of confusion, love instead of hate, and to hope that others would see that of God in all people.

Pastors tell views on faith healing

'Of course, I believe'

By HUGH DAVID BURCHAM, Pastor
Covenant Presbyterian Church

Of course I believe in "faith healing." All healing is faith healing. Indispensable to the patient is his faith in his doctor and others who may attend him. Likewise, necessary for the medical practitioner is his faith in the cumulative understandings and techniques of his profession, and in his own skills. Again, on the part of the one who diagnoses and prescribes medicines, there must be faith in the pharmacist who fills the prescription for the use of the patient. In every inter-relationship between those on the one side who are pursuing the healing arts and those on the other side who are being healed there must be the strong element of faith if healing is to occur.

Of course I believe in "faith healing." How many times I have listened to one or another of the members of my congregations, going through a most anxious post-operative experience in the hospital, tell me with great conviction: "Pastor, if it were not for my faith in God, I don't think I could make it." That is not to say that these patients were discounting the contribution to their healing of their respective doctors. But rather, their will to live and recover, during long and painful and sometimes discouraging hours following serious surgery, was being sustained by their deep and abiding faith in the "Divine Physician."

Of course I believe in "faith healing." Yes, I also believe that God has the power to bring healing in more spectacular ways that may not even involve the services of doctors. And, I think that we who are ministers should always be open to the possibility of such. However, I am also aware of the abuses of this possibility that ultimately lead up a dead end street. I have personally seen solidly mature Christian people, desperately seeking help in fighting some critical illness, lured into a kind of experimentation in the name of "faith healing" that not only did not produce the results that they thought we're offered, but in the disillusionment that came when healing did not follow, resulted in their actually turning away from God, whom they then came to feel had "let them down."

I am convinced that God does not perform His healing wonders simply because some human utters the correct verbal formula in a compelling way. God wills health and happiness for all. I, personally, believe that God delights in those who choose medicine as a profession, and devote their years to understanding more and more of the marvels of this intricate mechanism which is our body. I believe that God wants us to use medical science at its best in the processes of healing. And I also believe God honors those who with all the scientific help that can be wisely given, still turn to Him in trusting faith as the ultimate source of whatever healing power there is.

Of course I believe in "faith healing."

EDITOR'S NOTE: A number of pastors were asked to give their opinions on faith healing. Here are some replies. We purposely refrained from asking Christian Scientists and charismatic groups. They and others should feel free to express their views in brief, typewritten letters.

that when he prayed for healing from his "thorn in the flesh," the request was not granted but the prayer was answered by the gift of more grace to meet all of his needs.

Sometimes healing may be attributed to supernatural and even evil power not of God. There is less clear evidence of such occurrences.

It is in my opinion the privilege of every believer in Christ to pray about all physical needs: Acceptance in full submission to God's will of whatever He does is certainly very important for success in healing or grace to bear the illness. Medical treatment should be accepted as made possible by God and a means of healing as the laws of God make this possible.

'Satanic, fakery —'

By BILL BALL, minister
Central Church of Christ

That people claim to heal miraculously today should not surprise Christians. In the New Testament times, people attributed Simon's magic as being divine power (Acts 8:9-11). And even Jesus said that many people would claim to perform miracles (eg. faith healing) in His name, and yet He never knew them (Matt. 7:22). At best, faith healing is fakery, and at worst, it is Satanic power disguised as divine power (2 Thes. 2:9; 2 Cor. 11:14).

During the early church, however, there were times when the Spirit enabled certain Christians to perform acts of healing for the purpose of confirming the Word (Mark 16:20; Heb. 2:3-4). The Word no longer needs this type of confirmation (John 20:30-31). This miraculous healing entailed healing the sick cleansing the lepers, and RAISING THE DEAD (Matt. 10:8). Such does not happen today despite the many claims to the contrary.

Among the proofs that show today's "faith healing" to be fraudulent, perhaps one of the best is the fact that no one who was sick, maimed, or dead — not one — ever failed to be healed or raised because of his lack of faith! Many were healed because of their faith, but never was one left "unhealed" because of a shortage of faith on the part of the healer.

(P.S. The apostles never advertised "healing services" in the local paper either!)

'Faith healing exists'

By DR. EDWARD E. RAY, Pastor
Trinity Lutheran Church

God is infinite. His activity is consistent with His nature. Healing is a part of God's nature. Therefore, faith healing exists.

God heals people who have placed their trust in Him, as well as those who do not! He has His own reasons consistent with His divine purpose.

James 5 reveals a ministry of healing in the early Church. A member of Trinity Lutheran has been so touched by God, I am convinced that God can heal us: physically, mentally, emotionally, socially and spiritually.

It is essential to realize that only God exercises the power to heal through people and events. The greatest danger is man's presumption that the well-being of an earthly body is of greater value than the eternal salvation of a soul. God's ways are higher than man's ways.

People want healthy, strong and untroubled bodies. Most people would pay much of their wealth to have that. Some nationally publicized faith healers have taken evil advantage of that desire. Throughout recorded history there have been charlatans who manipulate people's hopes for their personal advantage.

Professional medicine has developed to the point that continued progress requires a close relationship between faith healing and medical practice. The chaplaincy in Memorial Hospital is a healthy step in this direction.

A person, who desires the healing powers of God to be focused upon his ailment, should ask his physician and pastor to consult and recommend action on this desire.

'Do not boast —'

By PETER DALEBOUT, President
Long Beach California East Stake
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints
(Mormon)

In reply to your letter of April 25, 1975, the following is a summary of approximately 200 words concerning the teaching of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) concerning "faith healing":

Just as the Savior did during His earthly ministry, so faithful men of all ages who have possessed the requisite authority of the Priesthood and derived their power from an unchanging God have healed and continue to heal those with every manner of disease and infirmity. Latter-day Saints accept literally the counsel of James from the New Testament: "Is any sick among you? Let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." (James 5:14).

The Lord intends not only that men exercise faith in Him but that they also use their free agency and intelligence in preventing and curing illness, including appropriate consultation with and treatment by physicians and others skilled in the healing arts.

Participation in the healing ordinance is a common occurrence among those who hold the true Priesthood of God but we are instructed not to boast of such occurrences or make them matters of public display. A faith based only on signs or miracles is weak and ineffective and continually demands greater signs to keep it alive. As Jesus told His apostle, Thomas: "blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 20:29).

If space permitted I would be pleased to comment further on this as well as the numerous other aspects of the Gospel. Thank you for your objective reporting and please feel free to contact me if I may be of further assistance.

'God can heal —'

By FRANK M. KEPNER, Pastor
First Baptist Church

The words "heal", "healed", "healing", are found one hundred thirty eight times in the Old and New Testaments. They have to do primarily with the healing of physical illness, but beyond this the restoration to health of the whole man, body, soul and spirit.

Basic to any discussion of the theme of healing is the realization that it is God who performs the miracle of healing. It must also be noted that God in healing deals with people on an individual basis. As Azariah, king of Judah, was a leper "unto the day of his death" (II Kings 15:3). Hezekiah, on the other hand, "was healed in a promised three days and lived another fifteen years" (II Kings 20:1-5). The healing ministry of our Lord confirmed His claims to Messiahship and were, of course, a natural result of His loving heart and tender compassion.

The ability to heal was given to the apostles (Acts 5:12-15). A lame man is healed in Acts three, another in Acts fourteen. Interestingly enough, the Apostle Paul was not healed (II Corinthians 12:7-9). Timothy was subject often to "infirmities" (First Timothy 5:23). Trophimus had to be left at Miletum because of illness (Second Timothy 4:20). Yet there were sudden healings: In Acts 9:34, for example, Luke tells us that "God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul: (Acts 19:11-12) make no mistake about it, God can heal and does. For myself, when I am ill, however desperately, I am satisfied to visit my Christian physician and to pray to the great Physician; that His will may be done through my beloved doctor. Then, so be it.

Breath that comes and goes, the fashioning of man's frame in the womb, of all this thou knowest nothing; and thinkest thou to understand God's doings, that is Maker of all? — Eccles. 1:5.

Facts are facts, all right — there is no disputing that. The trouble is, by too much such emphasis, you can subtly convince yourself that there is little or nothing you can do about the hard circumstances you have to face. Facts are facts, but the big thing is what we do about these facts. If for example, a person's attitude in the face of difficulty, is positive and creative, he accepts a tough fact as a challenge. He goes to work to overcome it and his efforts gradually change the circumstances. The unfavorable facts of the original problem are then replaced by the favorable facts of the creative solution.

Of course there are some facts which we cannot change. But our attitudes still determine how such unchangeable facts affect us.

An especially dramatic instance of this became known to me the last time I went to the heart specialist's office for a check-up. The doctor said he wanted to show me something in which he thought I would have an interest. He produced three X-ray plates and explained these showed the hearts of three different people, two men and one woman.

He said, "All three are hearts that have been physiologically damaged. The three persons are all over 65 years of age, and with hearts like these all three of them — according to statistics — ought to have died at least five years ago."

"They must be invalids," I commented. "No," said the doctor, "they are all living active lives. And the only thing I know about them that could explain it is that all three have a serene faith in God and a real love for their fellow men."

Raid nets 500 alien suspects

By MIKE JELF
Staff Writer

About 500 suspected illegal aliens were rounded up Friday when federal officers raided a downtown Los Angeles purse factory.

Officers of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said the morning raid at Beltline of California, 1100 S. Flower St., was believed to be the biggest such raid of a single employer in U.S. history. Joseph Dernetz, deputy district director of the immigration service, said he sent 25 agents to the factory after receiving a tip 50 illegal aliens were working there.

WHEN THE agents arrived, Dernetz said, workers began scattering, and many ran onto the rooftop. Many eluded agents by climbing down ropes which had been hung over the sides of nearby buildings, he said.

An additional 25 agents were dispatched, Dernetz said, and police were called in for traffic control around the plant.

As agents chased fleeing workers around nearby buildings, Dernetz said, he realized the raid had netted so many suspects the government lacked facilities to handle them all, and the arrests were stopped.

The arrested workers, described as mostly Mexican nationals, will be bused to Tijuana and released into Mexico unless they object to being deported, Dernetz said.

Those who object to being deported will be given deportation hearings within the next few days, he said.

SPOKESMEN for Beltline of California wouldn't comment on the raid, but Dernetz said it's not against the law to employ an illegal immigrant.

It is illegal, however, to knowingly harbor or to import illegal aliens, he said.

A majority of those taken into custody—80 to 70 per cent—were women, Dernetz said. The exact number of suspects taken into custody wouldn't be known until sometime today, he said.

The arrested suspects were taken to the immigration service processing center in the basement of the Federal Building in the Los Angeles Civic Center.

3,000 near immigrant status

First refugees win clearance

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — About 3,000 Vietnamese families headed by former U.S. employees got security clearances Friday, the first step for them and their families to establish new lives in America.

Meanwhile, sign-up lists were put up for any refugee who wished to return to his homeland. No one signed immediately.

With an average of five persons in each family, the clearances probably mean about 15,000 of the 18,000 persons here can leave Pendleton once they get sponsors who will give them homes and jobs, an official said.

This could take days or weeks, said Bill Stubbs, civilian press spokesman for the Interagency Task Force here handling the refugees.

Some refugees have indicated privately that they were having second thoughts about leaving Vietnam.

They have said they were taking a "wait and see" attitude to see what life under the Communists will be like before they will permanently settle. Some fear they won't like living in America.

Of the sign-up lists, Brill said, "We have had no requests for this, but the government is not opposing it. It's part of the routine."

An "international authority," probably the WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation providing $405 million to finance the resettlement of more than 100,000 Indochinese refugees was approved by the Senate and rushed to the White House Friday. President Ford was expected to waste no time in signing the measure, which also provides funds to send refugees back to South Vietnam, should they desire to return.

United Nations, will review any interested Vietnamese and arrange for his return, Brill said.

Spokesman for volunteer agencies charged with finding sponsors for refugees settling in the United States or in other countries said the number of inquiries had increased substantially.

Without a sponsor a refugee cannot leave "Little Saigon," nickname of the refugees' city of tents and quonset huts.

Stubbs said he hoped that the mass clearances, first such issued by Washington officials, meant that the backlog in refugee processing had been broken.

The lengthy screening has been slow, officials said, and only 30 to 70 persons have been leaving daily.

"We are expecting any day now clearances on other persons," Stubbs said. He predicted that about 1,000 persons could be processed out of Pendleton each day within about a week.

Brill said the volunteer agencies had verified 563 sponsors for 2,055 persons at Pendleton.

They will leave as soon as their security clearances are received."

Joseph N. Battaglia, project director for the United States Catholic Conference, said inquiries from prospective sponsors were "increasing all the time."

About 10 to 15 per cent of the persons who telephone will become sponsors, he said. Calls are being taken at Pendleton and at a toll-free number in Washington — 1-800-368-1180.

Some officials of the volunteer agencies questioned why such extensive processing, including the security checks, fingerprinting and photos, were required of the refugees.

But Stubbs said, "The immigration service is bound by laws to make the security checks. They really don't have any choice."

He added that "The object is not just to get them (the refugees) out of here. The object is to get them settled."

Assembly sex, pot antics told

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A third of the members of the Assembly have smoked marijuana, and three-quarters have committed illegal sex acts, a survey by a youth-oriented radio station says.

KZAP, an FM station in Sacramento, said 30 of the 80 members of the Assembly filled out its confidential survey questionnaire.

Jok Church, KZAP news director, said Friday that each questionnaire was delivered in person to the legislators with the promise that individual replies to the 18 survey questions would remain confidential.

Church said the percentages reported in the survey were based on those 30 replies.

Results include:

Marijuana—38 per cent said they personally had smoked marijuana at least once, and 58 per cent said at least one or more members of their immediate families have smoked marijuana.

Among the 30 Assembly members responding to the questionnaire, 64 per cent said they favor SB 95, which would reduce marijuana penalties to traffic ticket status. That bill failed on a 38-34 vote, three short of a 41-vote majority.

Sex — 73 per cent said they had taken part once or more in oral sex acts, which are against a state law to be repealed next

Jan. 1. On other sex questions, 77 per cent said they had engaged in premarital sex acts and 68 per cent said they had engaged in sex acts specifically prohibited by law.

ERA — 86 per cent said they favor the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Race — 79 per cent said they favor affirmative action hiring programs, and 100 per cent said they favor equal opportunity hiring programs.

Smog — 73 per cent said they oppose relaxing California vehicle emission standards.

Nuclear — 43 per cent favor building more nuclear plants in California, 46 per cent are opposed and the others had no opinion.

Problem — 59 per cent said inflation is the state's most urgent problem, 20 per cent said it is unemployment and 3 per cent each cited crime and sex discrimination.

Church said state senators were also asked the same questions, but no attempt was made to do a statistical report because only six senators responded to the questionnaire.

'Dangerous species' at zoo big surprise

Associated Press

"The World's Most Dangerous Species" read the sign at the Los Angeles Zoo's special one-day exhibit Friday. Spectators weren't frightened, but they sure were surprised.

Inside the glass exhibit next to a family of bintrongs were Homo sapiens. Or, to be more specific, two psychology students.

Jamie Pavlat and Darla Rollosen, both seniors at Temple City High School who are taking a psychology class at Pasadena City College, lounged on canvas beach chairs for about five hours, watching a portable television and listening to a portable tape deck.

Outside the cage, two other students used tape recorders to get the reactions of onlookers. The information will be used in a term paper the psychology students are writing on the experience.

They said they hope the survey will be helpful in evaluating the public's understanding of man's role in ecology and the conservation of endangered species.

ming the price in a plan engineered by Sosnovsky.

The article did not reveal how much equipment was sold to the Soviet Union in the collusion, though the size of the payoffs suggested it possibly ran into the millions of dollars.

On the first contract, Sosnovsky received 107,000 rubles — over $140,000 at the prevailing official exchange rate — plus 7,000 rubles worth of goods. A subsequent contract involved bribes of 300,000 rubles — about $400,000 — of which the 45,000 rubles seized at the airport was the advance payment, Nedelya said. It was not clear whether additional sums involving the $400,000 bribe were actually received by Sosnovsky.

STRIKE PLANS

The special session, which is set to start Monday afternoon, meets a major demand of doctors stung by soaring insurance rates.

But Bill Stall, Brown's press secretary, said no deals were made with striking doctors in seven San Francisco Bay area counties to bring them back to work.

Immediate reaction from doctors throughout the state was generally favorable, but no spokesman would say the move would end the walkout.

The Democratic governor also said he was setting up a special panel to investigate "all insurance company rates."

Brown's lengthy proclamation—the second special session he has called since taking office Jan. 6—said the malpractice problem endangers Californians' health.

"The inability of doctors to obtain such insurance at reasonable rates is endangering the health of the people of this state and threatens the closing of many hospitals," he said.

"In my judgment, no lasting solution is possible without sacrifice and fundamental reform," he added.

Brown, in San Francisco to attend a University of California Board of Regents meeting, told reporters:

"Doctors are unable to solve this problem. Now it's time for government to step in."

He added, if long term solutions are not adopted, "You'll see a lot of Band-Aids and a lot of rhetoric, but the disease will still be around next year."

Immediate legislative reaction to the special session was favorable, even though Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, said most of the reforms Brown advocated already are included in pending bills.

Brown listed nine major reforms he wanted the Legislature to consider in the special session, including a "Medical Peace Corps to serve Californians who lack adequate medical care."

Among the other reforms were regulation of hospital rates, better distribution of doctors across the state, voluntary binding arbitration to solve malpractice claims, limits on attorneys' fees, limits on "pain and suffering" awards and changes in the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Meanwhile, a Memorial Hospital spokesman said in Long Beach Friday, "The hospital remains optimistic and will wait until Monday" to decide what, if any, staff cut-backs might be needed, the spokesman said.

Dr. Rich Daniels, Memorial's chief of anesthesiology, said the doctors would resume work "as soon as meaningful legislation is in progress."

A spokesman at Pacific Hospital said the staff and administration have been discussing the possibility of a slowdown for several days.

If the anesthesiologists and other physicians go out on Monday the hospital will handle only emergency surgeries, the spokesman said. However, patients who are recovering from surgery will continue to receive post-operative care.

The hospital medical staff decided Thursday to cooperate with the anesthesiologists in the slowdown. If the strike is carried out, the hospital plans to close as many units as necessary—one at a time—but the emergency room will remain fully staffed at all times.

Similar steps are being planned at Community Hospital. The hospital will not lay off or terminate anyone but may encourage surgical department personnel to take vacations or leaves without pay.

The medical staff at Bauer Hospital-St. Mary Medical Center also has vowed to support the slowdown, performing only emergency surgeries.

Dr. Benjamin J. Feldman, the hospital's chief of staff, said that the doctors have agreed to take maternity, cancer and major trauma cases "in addition to obvious life-threatening emergencies."

meet with the Soviet Foreign Minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, in Vienna next week at a time when Soviet-American relations have taken a somewhat chilly turn.

He believes that the demonstration of American determination in the Mayaguez incident will have at least a marginal impact on the Russians.

Kissinger has consistently worried that if the Soviet Union perceived the United States as indecisive or weak it would be tempted to take risks that could worsen the international situation.

China, which was asked by Kissinger to act as an intermediary with the Cambodian Communists in the Mayaguez incident, was thought likely to respect the American determination to use force, even if Peking had little choice but to publicly criticize the operation itself.

Kissinger and his aides have believed for some time that Peking was interested in ties with the United States only so long as China thought Washington would stand up militarily to Moscow if necessary.

The country most upset by the Gulf of Siam operations has been Thailand, which was not informed ahead of time that 1,100 Marines were being airlifted to Thailand for use in the rescue.

Some State Department officials said relations with Thailand might deteriorate in coming weeks as a result of the embarrassment to the Government of Premier Kukrit Pranno.

But Kissinger believes that over the long run, the Thais, who are nervous about their security now that Cambodia and South Vietnam have fallen to the Communists will appreciate the American action as demonstrating a willingness to act firmly.

orders during the nine-week strike.)

Although there were temporary layoffs of non-striking workers during the walkout, Douglas kept its work force pretty well intact after the strike in an effort to bring its plane production back to normal. Now the company appears to have reached a point in its recovery where it feels that it can get along with 400 fewer workers.

Douglas has been turning out roughly one DC10 a week in recent weeks, but the figure is on its way down and is expected to reach 42 before long.

There are now 191 DC10s in service throughout the world, with 64 more on order. Of the 64, 30 are firm orders; the rest are conditional and optional.

In the DC9 line, the company has delivered 767 planes and has 88 on order. Sixty of those orders are firm; the rest are conditional and optional.

Hayes backs measure on juvenile justice

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor James Hayes Friday threw his support behind a pending bill authored by Assemblyman Allen Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, aimed at restructuring the state's juvenile justice system.

At a joint press conference, Hayes and Sieroty said a major change is needed in the law and that an all-out effort at county and state levels is needed to bring about passage of the legislation.

Sieroty said one of the main provisions of his bill would be to create a series of Community Youth Boards in each county to deal with minor offenders and recommend rehabilitation programs.

He said the board concept would bring a greater sense of responsibility on the part of juvenile offenders, their parents and the community at large.

Sieroty said each youth board would have 15 members — seven chosen from specialized fields and eight elected by the community. He added that the boards would be set up within the attendance district of each high school in the county.

Officials said there are 166 high schools in the county, which would mean total representation on the boards of 2,490 persons with 1,328 being elected. Sieroty said the persons serving on the boards would receive expenses only.

In addition to the boards, Sieroty's bill would call for some sort of restitution by juveniles, especially for property damage caused by vandalism or resulting from criminal acts.

He suggested that offenders might be made to work weekends to compensate for the damage.

Sieroty noted that juveniles who commit serious crimes such as burglary, rape, robbery or murder would continue to face prosecution in Juvenile Court. In fact, he said, his proposed bill would strengthen the ability of juvenile courts to deal with serious crimes by removing first-time, minor offenders from the juvenile court process entirely.

Hayes said that more than 110,000 juveniles were arrested in the county in 1974, with only 40,000 cases eventually being partially or fully processed by the courts.

The thousands of other cases, which did not go through the courts, could well have provided some benefit to the youthful offenders by the informal proceedings which would be available under the youth board concept, he added.

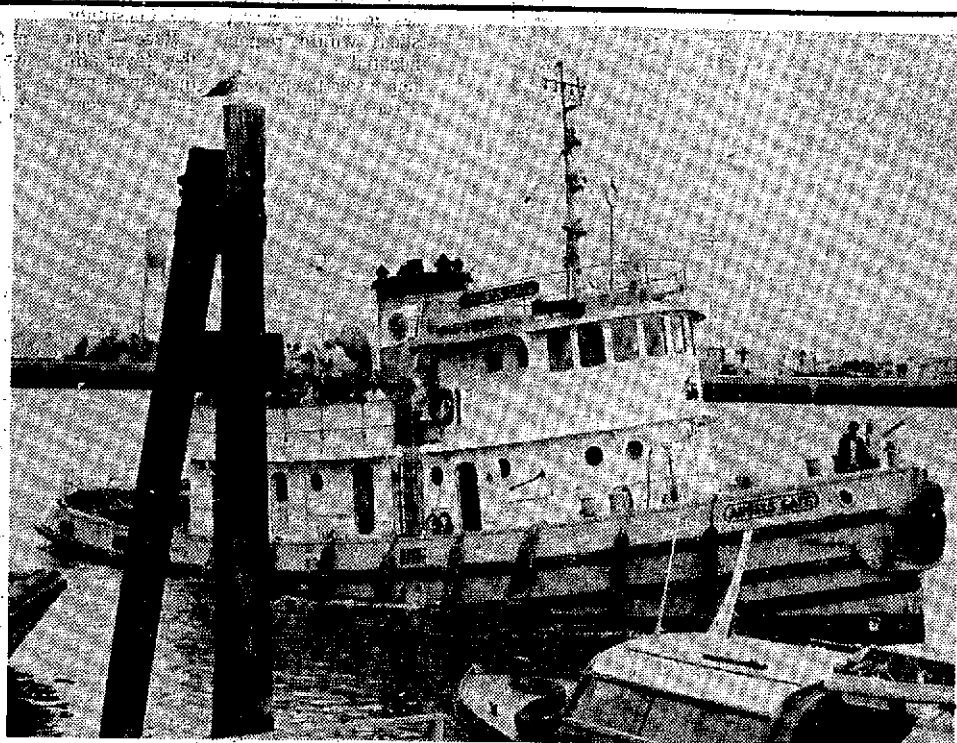

"The fact that they were arrested though not taken to court shows they could be heading for deeper trouble in the future unless some supervision is provided," Hayes said.

He said another major provision of the bill would transfer decisions on whether a juvenile matter will go into court from probation officers to the district attorney's office.

He said a large number of cases presently are dismissed because a probation officer doesn't have the skill to prepare proper legal charges.

Sieroty said he hopes the bill will clear the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee, of which he is chairman, within the next few weeks. From there, it must go to the Ways and Means Committee.

LOS ANGELES TUG ANGELS GATE TO GIVE FREE HARBOR CRUISES SUNDAY

Free boat rides slated for World Trade Week

In observance of World Trade Week, May 18-24, the Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles have scheduled free boat tours of their respective harbors Sunday.

A spokesman for the Long Beach Harbor Department said two boats—the 90-passenger Lani Kai and the 150-passenger Betty Lou—are scheduled to depart from 200 Panoramia Drive every half hour from noon until 4 p.m. The trips are to take one hour.

Harbor department officials in Los Angeles said the 140-passenger Star is to depart from the former Ferry Building at the foot of Sixth Street in San Pedro at 10 a.m., and the 75-passenger Harbor Department tugboat Angels Gate is to leave from the public landing at the foot of Avalon Boulevard in Wilmington at the same time.

Both boats are scheduled to return hourly until 4 p.m. to discharge passengers and begin new excursions.

Spokesmen for both ports said children must be accompanied by an adult, boarding of the vessels is to be on a first-come-first-served basis.

In addition to the excursions, the Long Beach

Harbor Department has scheduled an open house in the Harbor Administration Building, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive, from noon until 5 p.m. The Long Beach Municipal Band will present a three-hour concert starting at noon in front of the building.

The International Trade Club has scheduled a fashion show in cooperation with American Airlines starting at 1:30 p.m. Miss World Trade, Gunilla Bulow, and former stewardesses will model the latest in travel wardrobes.

Also, a movie, "Tomorrow's Port Today," produced and narrated by veteran newsman Cleve Roberts will be shown continuously throughout the afternoon in the sixth-floor board room.

Exhibit galleries in the lobby and on the sixth floor and the rooftop observation deck will be staffed by members of the Port Ambassadors and International Hostesses.

The spokesman said bus transportation to the Long Beach harbor facilities will be available from Third Street and Pine Avenue in downtown Long Beach. The buses are scheduled to depart every half-hour.

A tree for Betsy Taubman

Civic leader to be feted

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Betsy Taubman, founder of Long Beach Beautiful and a major force behind numerous beautification projects in the city for more than 10 years, is to be honored by the Park Commission at its annual Arbor Day ceremonies May 31 in El Dorado Park.

In recognition of her service to the city, a tree is to be planted in Mrs. Taubman's honor in the Arbor Day Grove at El Dorado Park East north of Wardlow Road, and her name is to be added to the sign designating the grove.

In prior years, Milton B. Arthur of the Recreation Commission, Don D. Obert, first city park director, and Virginia Russell, former president of the Park Commission, have been chosen as honorees for the Arbor Day ceremony.

Arbor Day activities are scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. with a tree planting in the "Woodlands of the World" section of the park by Girl Scouts.

Residents are invited to bring picnic lunches for a "family" observance, according to Jim Hoffman, Park Commission president. The luncheon is to start at 11:50 a.m., accompanied by music by the Long Beach Municipal Band.

The tree-planting for Mrs. Taubman is to take place following the picnic lunch, at 1:25 p.m., Hoffman said.

Long Beach Beautiful was formed in 1960, at the instigation of Mrs. Taubman, as a committee of the Chamber of Commerce. She helped form a 50-member advisory board of community leaders, and the committee drew up a long-range beautification program for the city.

Among its accomplishments were the removal of unused railroad tracks down Long Beach Boulevard and their replacement with landscaped divider islands, an awards program for beautification of commercial buildings, support for purchase of modern equipment to keep the beach clean, and widening and beautification of Ocean Boulevard in the downtown area.

In 1964, Long Beach Beautiful was removed from the Chamber of Commerce's women's division and opened to male membership. Mrs. Taubman was appointed chairman of the restructured organization.

The new committee helped get the state to beautify San Diego Freeway through Long Beach and was a major force in getting landscaping and beautification of the oil islands. She served as chairman of the organization from 1961 to 1971.

Job policy outlined

The employment policy of the City of Long Beach is nondiscrimination, but it is up to the employees to make it work, City Manager John R. Mansell said Friday in a policy statement distributed to the more than 4,500 city workers.

"The success or failure of our program is vested not in laws nor in documents, but in our employees," Mansell said.

"This is especially true for those employees in positions which have an effect on the staffing patterns of the city's work force," he said.

In a memorandum accompanying the policy statement, the city manager said Long Beach has "entered into a new era of equal employment opportunity through affirmative action."

The essence of this, Mansell said, is reflected in the recent amendment to the city charter which adds provisions against discrimination because of sex or national origin. He also pointed out that the city recently hired an affirmative action officer to consolidate its efforts into a "meaningful and measurable" program.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972, for the first time, includes city employees within the framework of federal equal opportunity legislation, he said.

"This coverage assures all employees of the city that a system of merit, free of discrimination, is the basis for all personnel actions," Mansell said.

He said the city intends to measure itself against specific objectives to assure "a continued movement toward full and equal participation by all employees in any opportunities offered by the city."

"Nothing less is equitable. Nothing less will suffice," Mansell said.

STUDENTS PLAN ART DISPLAY

International students at Long Beach State University will display their art and play host at a wine and cheese tasting party that will be open to the public Sunday at the International City Club.

The event is sponsored by the International Community Council, a local group that aids foreign students at LBSU and other nearby colleges. The art show will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. at the club, 1900 E. Ocean Blvd. A donation of $3 a person is asked, and proceeds will be spent for council activities for international students.

Eighteen international students will display their art work at the show. Some students will wear the dress of their countries.

Citizenship candidates to graduate

More than 130 men and women from 37 foreign countries will graduate from Long Beach City College citizenship classes Wednesday night.

The graduation ceremony will include singing, dancing, flag displays and the awarding of diplomas at Hughes Junior High auditorium, 3846 California Ave. The 8 p.m. event is sponsored by the Long Beach Soroptimist Club.

The graduates have passed a semester-long course on U. S. history, the Constitution and government, said Dr. Arthur Steiner, dean of continuing education at LBCC.

The students were members of evening classes taught at the Jordan, Lakewood and Pacific Coast Campuses of the college. The courses were taught by Larry Simon, an English teacher, and Mike Shapiro, an attorney.

Two of the speakers at the ceremonies will be students. Peter Young of England will speak on "Why United States Citizenship?" and Nahib Mattar of Egypt will discuss "Why the USA."

Entertainment will be provided by City College's International Club.

The graduates will receive certificates from Dr. H. David Burham, a member of the Long Beach Board of Education.

Nineteen of the graduates are from England. Other countries represented are: the Philippines, 13; South Korea, 9; Germany, 9; Canada, 11; Mexico, 10; Scotland, 6; Argentina, 3; British West Indies, 1; Taiwan, 1; Columbia, 3; Costa Rica, 1; Cuba, 4; Czechoslovakia, 1; Ecuador, 5; Egypt, 1; France, 3; Greece, 4; Guatemala, 2; Holland, 12; Hungary, 1; Indonesia, 1; Ireland, 3; Israel, 1; Jamaica, 2; Japan, 4; Morocco, 1; Nicaragua, 2; Pakistan, 1; Peru, 2; Russia, 1; Spain, 2; Thailand, 1; Trinidad, 1; Venezuela, 1; Vietnam, 1, and Yugoslavia, 4.

Juvenile justice hearings slated

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

A series of 15 hearings spread over five evenings will begin Wednesday, when the Orange County Juvenile Justice Study Committee seeks citizen input on how to handle youthful offenders.

Findings of the hearings are to be incorporated into the committee's study, which is to result in a detailed report aimed at suggesting new methods of handling wayward youth.

Augmenting the public hearings, the committee sent questionnaires to police chiefs, school administrators and counselors, community agencies and individuals, seeking their suggestions.

Each of the hearings, which are scheduled in 13 cities in the county, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Wednesday hearings are to be held at Dana Hills High School in Dana Point, Mission Viejo High School and Gary Center in La Habra.

On Thursday night, the hearings will be in Newport Harbor High School, Newport Beach; Fullerton High School, and Garden Grove High School.

Sessions scheduled May 27 will be conducted at Santa Ana's Saddleback High School and South Community Center, and in Anaheim High School.

The schedule for May 28 includes hearings at Santa Ana's Corbin Community Center, Tustin High School and Laguna Beach High School. On May 29, the hearings are scheduled at Marina High School in Huntington Beach, Valencia High School in Placentia and the El Modena Friendly Center.

They'll sing in park on Sunday

"The Performing Arts Un-chorus Goes Pop," a free musical program by the Long Beach Recreation Department's adult chorus, will be presented Sunday at 8 p.m. in Bixby Park, 130 Cherry Ave.

Pat Nixon to attend dedication of school

Pat Nixon, wife of former President Nixon, has accepted an invitation from the ABC Unified School District to return to her hometown Wednesday for dedication ceremonies at a new school named in her honor.

The Patricia Nixon School, 19600 Jacob Ave., Cerritos, is scheduled to be dedicated in ceremonies at 7:30 p.m., according to a spokesman for the school district. Admission to the dedication is by invitation only, due to limited seating capacity.

Mrs. Nixon, whose maiden name is Thelma Patricia Ryan, came to the community with her parents from her birthplace in Ely, Nev., at the age of three. The Ryan family home, where Mrs. Nixon lived from 1914 to 1930, is located in Pat Nixon Park at 12364 South Street.

She attended Artesia Elementary and Excelsior High schools before moving to Whittier in 1930 to become a high school typing teacher.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

There's a question that comes to mind regarding which authority is correct, L. H. Bailey—the "father" of the Standard Encyclopedia of Horticulture—who spelled the plant name Amarantus, or the Garden Dictionary, edited by Norman Taylor, who spells the name Amaranthus with an (h), as well as Webster's New International Dictionary second edition, which likewise agrees with the Garden Dictionary. Who's right?

Anyhow, one of the seed catalogs also spells it with an (h). Regardless who's right, those plants sure are desirable in the sunny garden. The brighter the sunlight, the more intense the colorful foliage.

They grow taller in partial shade with less color intensity, and bushier, and sturdier in the brightest sunshine. A mass planting of them against a white or light color wall emphasizes the young glowing bright rose-red leaves topped with gold and the lower mature leaves of chocolate and green.

ZINNIA provide a half dozen or more sizes of blossoms with a wide range of colors. Plants aren't happy if set out in a corner of a walled or shrubbery-screened garden even though in full sun, because the poor circulation there will cause them to mildew. They prefer not heavy winds, but more air movement.

Plants start easily from seeds if sown in a prepared soil. The seedlings are thinned out or transplanted when they are about two inches tall.

Plants are available in pony packs ready to set out, hastening the maturity growth thereby furnishing flowers three weeks to a month or more earlier.

A colorful contrasting planting with zinnias would be petunias in blue or purple, set out in front of the zinnias.

GLORIOSA daisies' full botanical name, even though unimportant to a gardener, still is informative because actually it is a Rudbeckia hirta burpeeii. These daisies are easy to grow, and blossom from summer well on into the fall. The blooms last for some days on the plants, and are also good for cut flowers, too.

One of the varieties, "Irish Eyes," is an exceptionally unusual color. The flowers about five inches across are a clear golden yellow with green centers. Other varieties are single and double gold while still another variety has mahogany and gold with pinwheel-shape petals.

Gardener mustn't forget that asters, too, provide their share of showy summer color in a sunny garden with their varying shapes and sizes of blossoms.

THREE more interesting plants that add more color pep in the shade garden are Impatiens (Impatiens) and not impatiences, Coleus, and Torenia.

Impatiens are fleshy-like, comparable to bedding begonias, with white, pink and rose (single) blossoms.

Coleus should be planted where they'll get several hours of sunshine in a shade garden in order to intensify the color depth in the foliage.

Torenia plants grow about a foot high with

AMARANTUS.....blazing leaf

mer color in a sunny garden with their varying shapes and sizes of blossoms.

blossoms that look like pansies in blue shades with yellow throats. Gardener not familiar with these plants should grow them from seeds if the plants are not available at nurseries.

DICHONDRA lawns are susceptible to cutworm damage, also flea beetles that are more damaging than the cutworms. Such flea beetles in the lawn should be sprayed immediately with an insecticide the nurseryman recommends if the lawn areas begin to look as if scorched with a blow torch. Those devilish flea beetles are shiny black and about the size of a pin head. They also hop.

Old Farmer's Riddle: Why is a needle like an idle genius? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: My husband and I have a beautiful brass bed which requires monthly polishing. We use a commercial product which is good, but expensive, at one cent each month. Do you know of some mixture of common household products that would work just as well as store-bought polish? We know about shellacking the bed, but we don't want to do this. L. T., Atlanta.

For what it may be worth, we can tell you that aboard the old ships where there was much brightwork, they used to use the brine from the beef and pork barrels and coarsely canvas. Home Hint: To remove wallpaper, mix one heaping tablespoon of saltwater and one gallon of hot water. Apply freely to wallpaper, keeping the water hot... Riddle answer: It does not work until pushed.

LBSU group offers fun drama 'Tommy'

By MARK CLUTTER
Staff Writer

Most men, even some Medal of Honor recipients, have a bit of the anthro in their natures. So "Where Has Tommy Flowers Gone?" at the LBSU Studio Theatre causes a man to remember aspects of his mispent youth.

The play will be repeated tonight at 8:30 p.m. Tommy, played beautifully by Robert Cooper, is a boy from St. Petersburg, Fla., adrift in New York. He can't go home again and he can't find a home in New York. Street people drift in and out as he tries and fails to understand himself.

There is Ben, the huge, beautiful, clumsy dog played with the human face of Peter Savino. The play by Terrence McNally is a fun drama with inevitable heartbreak and tragedy.

It is a production of the LBSU New Directions Ensemble, a group of students who do everything their own way with just a bit of faculty advice. The play is about youth and the players are young. Perhaps that's why it is spontaneous, zany and real.

Director Bette Ross is ably assisted by Christine

XA Busch, Sheryl Collins, Patricia McKenna, Richard McKibben and James Marrelli.

The actors, along with Cooper and Savino are, Joanne Arledge, Garry Corgiat, Ned Gill, Peter Savino, Eleanor Packwood, Richard Hockwarth, Rhonda Cause, James Civanitch, Elisabeth Savage, Lisa Hockney, Brian Price, Dave Toole.

Earl's Pearls

Today's Best Laugh: An elevator operator got tired of everybody asking him the time so he installed a clock. Now everybody asks him if the clock is right.

Wish I'd Said That: Sammy Cahn advised a young comic, "When you're telling jokes, try your best. If that doesn't work — try somebody else's best."

George Burns explained how he stops long-winded story-tellers: "Right in the middle I say, 'Oh, that's a version of the old pineapple story,' and I walk away."

— By Earl Wilson

2 Dates set for March of Dimes benefit

Earl's Pearls: Someone described an elegant cocktail party as "held in lush surroundings — with surrounding lusher."

A two-night benefit for the Orange County March of Dimes will be held May 27 and 28 at Anaheim's Grand Hotel, featuring "Youth Incorporated" and a 31-piece orchestra from Fullerton State University. The Youth Incorporated group of 32 singers, 25 dancers and 15 comedy acts performed at Disneyland Hotel recently to a sell-out audience.

The group's repertoire ranges from the 1900's through the pop-power and so is designed to have something for all ages. The show's theme will be "It's a Great Life," according to producer-director Don Manley.

MONDAY: ??????

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: During the early months of this year, you may have developed habits, possessions and ventures. Whatever you cling to now becomes a "white elephant" next year.

Aries (March 21-April 19): If you can get through today without any serious activity, fine. If not, do the least that will get you by. Don't pay attention to criticism, but remember who offers it.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Everyone has his own opinion now and doesn't hear what anyone else has to say. Do your fair share quietly. Let people settle differences among themselves.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Take as much of today for a small vacation as conditions permit. If you can't leave your locality, try to visit it as a tourist might or have others help you do so.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Travel is less attractive than previous experience makes it appear. There'll be more later, so you don't gain anything by rushing matters. Opt for favorite hobbies or home repairs.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The final word isn't spoken today. Let others compete for attention while you attend to labor that will make future prosperity possible. Visit those who can't visit you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Since most people seem to skip tradition now or just don't show up, you must carry the responsibilities or a larger portion than usual. Remain above petty conflicts.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Don't discuss money matters or personal details with those nearby. Renew distant contacts. You're a great inspiration or of service to someone less fortunate.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Early squabbles persist if you won't relax and do something to alleviate stress. If you haven't much energy for social or practical matters, take it easy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This average Sunday begins with a slow start. Do your part in community customs without making a big deal of it. Invest serious thought in plans.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Once you've gotten yourself pulled together after a rather muddled morning, it's a grand day for reunions. Look for relationships that promise some social progress.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Clerical chores have piled up to the point where you ought to take time out to dispose of them. Make up your mind what you want; make plans to go after it.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Concentrate on those who really care about what you do. Surprisingly few people understand where you are now, but you don't need to educate them.

"The management of a conglomerate was convinced its purchasing director was getting kickbacks but couldn't trace them until a disgruntled employee of one of the vendors squealed. It turned out the purchasing director kept stationery of the vendors in his office. His secretary, who also was his mistress, typed up the vendors' bids. The prices appeared to be reasonable.

BUT WHEN the goods actually were shipped there were small differences in quality or short counts. These seemed insignificant but on a volume of $160 million a year they mounted up. The vendors deposited the kickbacks directly in the purchasing director's Swiss bank account."

Another purchasing director cleaned up an estimated $150,000 in 12 months by running an outside consulting firm, all of whose clients turned out to be vendors to his employer.

Miss U.S.A. pageant bumps Carol Burnett

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Time was when beautiful girls went to Niagara Falls on their honeymoon, and, for all I know, maybe they still do.

I say "beautiful" because all of them must be pretty in the eyes of at least one man.

Tonight, 51 girls who would be considered beautiful by a lot more than one man will be in the honeymoon mecca — and, presumably, without any man to share their bedroom.

They'll be contestants in the 24th annual "Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant," representing all the states and the District of Columbia.

The pageant will air on Channel 2 from 10 to midnight, with Bob Barker as emcee and Helen O'Connell as TV hostess.

This evening's winner will be crowned by the 1974 queen, Karen Morrison of Illinois. She will receive cash and scholarship awards of $10,500 plus a $7,500 personal appearance contract. And she'll get to represent the United States in the "Miss Universe Pageant" to be held July 19 in San Salvador.

CBS will televise the "Miss Universe Pageant," too, with Miss O'Connell and Barker again on duty.

CAROL BURNETT'S show, which will be preempted tonight by the beauty pageant, topped the national Nielsen ratings for the week ending May 11. It was a rerun with Telly Savalas and the Smothers Brothers as guest stars. The Smothers Brothers' own show, you've probably heard, has been axed by NBC and won't be around in the fall.

Lyle spoils champ's Las Vegas act

Ali scores TKO triumph in 11th

Combined News Services

LAS VEGAS — Ron Lyle spoiled Muhammad Ali's act Friday night even though the referee stopped the action at 1:08 of the 11th round when Ali put on one blinding minute of fighting.

Lyle was leading on two of the three judges' scorecards after the 10th round, although there had been little damage done by either man.

"He caught me a couple of times but I was surprised when the referee stopped it," Lyle said. "I wasn't hurt. This was a championship fight."

Ali, who had predicted an eighth round knockout, tried desperately to accomplish it in the first brisk action of a match so dull that boos came from the crowd of 6,513 in the Convention Center.

"Any other man would have been finished in the eighth," Ali said in defense of an act that had fallen flat to that point.

Lyle's manager, Chickie Ferrara, was outraged at referee Fred Hernandez's action in the 11th round.

"They should have let it go on," Ferrara said. "I don't think Ron was hurt. They acted as though this was a four-round preliminary. It was for the world heavyweight championship, and I don't think Ali would have lasted 15 rounds."

ALI SAID he asked Hernandez to stop the bout. "The man was unconscious. He wasn't defending himself. I cannot kill a man. I could see in his eyes he was just there to be hit."

Judges Art Lurie and Bill Kipp appeared to agree with Ferrara. Kipp had Lyle ahead 49-43 after 10 rounds, while Lurie scored it for Lyle 46-45. The third judge, John Mangriciana, had the bout even at 46-46. Lyle consistently refused Ali's invitation to come after him on the ropes or to dance. He refused to play any of Ali's games, and the first six rounds lacked action.

Midway through the seventh, Ali became more aggressive, flicking long lefts, but not with sufficient force to hurt Lyle. Ali came out for the eighth and went after Lyle steadily: dancing, circling, throwing combinations, but not really hurting the challenger.

Ali slowed again in the ninth and tenth rounds, dancing, doing nothing. When the bell rang for the 11th round, Ali continued his lazy tactics. Then the right hand flashed with all the power of old and the punch landed flush in Lyle's face near mid-ring.

Lyle was driven into the center of the ropes. Ali moved like a panther and the blows began.

ALI REFUSED to let Lyle escape, driving him into a neutral corner and continuing the rain of punches. At 1:08, referee Fred Hernandez stepped in although Lyle had not gone down. He waved Ali off. Lyle stood for a moment, then moved out to protest.

In his dressing room, Ali said Lyle deserves another chance.

"Lyle was in excellent shape and I wasn't surprised that he was ahead after 10 rounds," said Ali. "But I knew he would tire eventually, and when he did I got my chance to finish him off."

"He's a good fighter and he deserves another chance although he'll have to wait until next year because I have some business first with European champion Joe Bugner, George Foreman and Joe Frazier."

Bob Ganger scattered seven hits and Pierce College exploded for eight runs Friday afternoon to defeat Long Beach City College 8-0 in the first game of their Metropolitan Conference best-of-three playoff series.

A Viking-Brahma doubleheader begins at Pierce today at noon. LBCC must win both games to advance to the Southern California playoffs next week at East Los Angeles College.

Approximately 60 spectators at the LBCC campus field watched the Brahmas belt Viking right-hander Larry Buckle for 11 hits, including four singles during a four-run eighth inning rally that sent Buckle to the showers.

Sutton loses no-hitter in 8th—game in 9th

By GORDON VERRELL

Don Sutton narrowly missed a perfect game Friday night. Al Oliver gets the credit — or discredit — depending upon your prejudices.

Sutton contends that Pittsburgh's Oliver is one of the best hitters in the National League, and that the Pirates are the most talented team in the Eastern Division.

Oliver insists that Sutton is the best pitcher in baseball — "at least since the All-Star game last year."

Friday night at Dodger Stadium, before 44,111

cheering fans, it was obvious both are right.

Oliver, who didn't hit the ball out of the infield in his first three tries against Sutton, hit it out of the ball park on his fourth try to propel the powerful Pirates to a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers.

It was a frustrating defeat for Sutton, who did not allow the Pirates a thing for 79/3 innings, retiring an incredible 22 hitters in a row.

But the string of perfection was snapped—and so was Sutton's bid for his 40th career shutout—with successive singles by Richie Zisk, Dave Parker and Manny Sanguillen to score a run and tie the score, 1-1.

The tie lasted an inning. Rennie Stennett singled with one out in the ninth, only the fourth hit off Sutton, and Oliver followed with his third homer, a towering blow into the rightfield pavilion.

"When you can shut out the Pirates in the playoffs, shut 'em out in their park and hold 'em hitless for seven innings like Sutton did," said manager Walter Alston, "that's about as far as anyone can go against that ball club."

Oliver, a 294 career hitter, concurred.

"The games he beat us in the playoffs were two of the best games I've ever seen pitched," he said. "Tonight was every bit as good."

The Pirates managed to get only two balls out of the infield for seven innings, both harmless fly balls, and Sutton, who

Grich homer nips Angels, 1-0; Harper homer nods Orioles

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

BALTIMORE — The Angels and Orioles were not poles apart Friday night. They were poles close — foul poles close.

In as tightly contested a doubleheader as one could conceive, the clubs split. The margin of victory, in each instance, was inches, or fractions thereof.

Baltimore seized the opener, 1-0, when Bobby Grich, using the power swing he hopes will bring him a handsome salary increase at his next negotiating session, slammed a two-out ninth inning home off the leftfield foul pole to ruin a superb pitching effort by Frank Tanana.

But the Birds died by the same instrument in the second game when Tommy Harper's second home run of the game — and the season — glanced off the same foul pole in the seventh inning. That shot, combined with Ed Figueroa's three-hitter, was enough to overcome the Orioles, 3-2.

Clearly, Figueroa's effort in the nightcap, gives manager Dick Williams a problem. Repeating a plaintive cry he has frequently issued, Figueroa announced four days.

"I'm not happy in the bullpen," he said. "I don't know how I'm going to pitch when I work out of there. When I start I know what I'm going to do... I concentrate more."

Figueroa struck out a career high of eight and turned the Orioles away empty after a first-inning homer by Don Baylor nullified a two-run drive by Harper in the same round and created the tie that Harper eventually fractured in the seventh.

Figueroa is now 2-0. His other triumph was an impressive 9-1 five-hitter against Oakland.

Williams, mopping his brow, said Figueroa would be given another start Sunday in Easton.

Harper took over the Angel club lead in RBI with his output of three in the second game.

"I wasn't thinking home run in either instance," he said. "I was just trying to protect the plate. I've only hit one home run off him (loser Mike Cuellar) before and I've never hit one off the foul pole. I didn't think it had a chance of staying fair."

If Harper wasn't thinking long ball in the second game, Grich definitely was in the first.

In a situation why not? he argued. "He got behind in the count a had to come in with a fastball and I had my extra base swing ready."

So Grich connected for his sixth homer of the season and left Tanana a

JORDAN HOLDS OFF LOS ALAMITOS, 3-2

By RICK ARTHUR
Staff Writer

Jordan High scored a major upset in the CIF baseball playoffs Friday, using two dramatic double plays, a substitute catcher, an undefeated pitcher and a pair of seventh-inning singles to edge host Los Alamitos, 3-2.

"We don't get into the playoffs often," understated Panther coach Chuck McFarlin, "so this was an especially pleasing win."

"Our goal is to meet Lakewood in the finals, after losing to them three times in league," McFarlin said hopefully.

The Panthers, 16-7-1 entering the first-round contest as the Moore League's second-place team, stunned the Sunset League champion Griffins, 19-6 before the game, with a run in the second, fifth and seventh innings, after surviving two Los Alamitos scores in the second.

Jordan came up with a clutch play in the first inning.

After winning right-hander Gary Layne (6-0) got leadoff batter Scott Portinga to ground out, he surrendered a bunt single to Mike Carpenter and a walk to Rick Baird.

Losing pitcher Craig Chamberlain (6-3) then stroked a single to center field, which normally would have driven in at least one run.

But John Griffin in center threw quickly and accurately to Panther catcher Ken Filinuk, who withstood a ferocious collision with Carpenter for one out. Dazed but undaunted, Filinuk jumped off the ground and hurled to third baseman Frank Carderella, who tagged Baird for the double play.

Filinuk suffered a severely sprained ankle and was hospitalized immediately after the game. Tom Molley, a leftfielder who hadn't caught since pre-league competition, filled in behind the plate for six innings.

Wayne West pinch-hit for Filinuk in the top of the second and took first base when a Chamberlain fastball brushed him across the chest. Griffin hit a ground ball to Bruce Heiser at shortstop for an apparently easy out or possible double play, but Heiser bobbled the ball (one error), overthrew second (two errors) and West

Stan Williams...throws no-hitter

WILLIAMS HURLS NO-HITTER, 1-0

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

Stan Williams, who hurled five hitless innings in his last Moore League start, was more effective Friday as the CIF 4-A baseball playoffs got under way.

The Lakewood High junior right-hander hurled a no-hitter at visiting Redlands and the Lancers made a lone fourth inning run stand up for a 1-0 victory.

The game, which lasted only 1 hour and 38 minutes, was a superb pitching duel between Williams and Fred Smith of Redlands.

Williams struck out seven and walked four; Smith surrendered only three hits, walked two and fanned three.

Redlands' closest approach to a hit was a line drive to right with one out in the seventh by Smith, but Don Ruzek flagged it down on the run.

Lakewood's only run was unearned.

Ruzek, Lakewood's offensive spark with two of the team's three hits, singled to center with one out in the fourth. With Kevin Miller at bat, Ruzek stole second on the first pitch, then got up and took third as the throw got away from Redlands second baseman Ken Delgado for an error.

Miller did his job, lofting a high fly to center to score the run.

Lakewood's only other hit was a two-out single by catcher Randy Whistler in the fifth.

Smith, described as "sneaky fast" by Lakewood coach John Herbold, had the Lancers swinging late most of the afternoon. "We knew what type of pitcher he was," said Herbold, "but we couldn't do a lot."

Redlands found Williams even tougher to figure out. Only the four walks marred an otherwise perfect performance.

Two of the walks came in the fourth, but Williams struck out Smith on a curve to end the inning. Lakewood scored in its half of the fourth, then received a big lift defensively in the fifth to swing the momentum.

Woodie Smith, Fred's brother, led off with a walk. Ken Lewis, on a 0-2 count, laid down a perfect bunt along the third base
